Market Review

Concerned about a persistent inflation undershoot and downside risks from global trade, the Fed made a notable shift from signalling a cumulative three hikes through 2020 at its December meeting to indicating only one hike (zero in 2019 and one hike in 2020) at its March meeting. Also coming as a dovish surprise to the markets was a shift in its balance sheet reduction plans, from being on "autopilot" to ending in September (monthly cap on Treasuries roll-offs will also be halved starting in May). Such changes in the Fed's reaction function resulted in a significant rally in the US Treasury market in the first quarter, especially in the intermediate part of the curve. Amid still weak data, the ECB also turned more dovish. At its March meeting, the Governing Council extended the forward guidance of no rate hike through the end of the year while announcing a new series of TLTRO. Markets have also started to price in some possibility of rate cuts, after ECB President Draghi talked about easing the pressures on bank profitability from negative rates, which gave rise to hopes for a tiered deposit rate system. German bunds rallied sharply in Q1 with long-dated bunds outperforming, reflecting weak data and the increasing chaos around Brexit. With the exception of the Norges bank, which hiked rates in March and struck a hawkish tone, the other DM central banks have all turned more dovish.

The tentative signs of growth recovery saw earlier during the year seemed to have run out of steam in Q2. The June World PMI declined for the third consecutive months to 49.7 (DM: 49.7 and EM: 49.6), signaling global manufacturers were heading into a recession in months to come. Not only has the escalation of the US and China trade tensions contributed to the worsening in business sentiment, it has also seemed to have affected the mood among US consumers. Employment growth has also slowed and so has inflation. Amid increasing market expectations of rate cuts, the FOMC delivered a dovish message in June. The US Treasury rallied significantly this quarter, in particular the short-end as markets were now expecting a total of four rate cuts, with three to come in H2 this year. The ECB joined the Fed in turning more dovish in June. President Draghi reinforced the message delivered earlier at the ECB meeting preparing the market for a return to ECB easing which could include both rate cuts and a restart of QE. However, given the limited room for rate cuts, the possibility of a new QE have shown a larger impact on markets. The long-end of the German Bund curve rally significantly (c.-60bps) this quarter, also benefitting from political uncertainties (European election, May's resignation over Brexit negotiation) and anaemic growth and inflation expectations.

Central banks continued to be in the spotlight in Q3, with the US Fed cutting rates twice (50bps in total), while the ECB announcing both a rate cut (10bps) and a restart of open-ended QE (€20bn per month). The PBoC also delivered on market expectations by cutting the reserve requirement ratio (RRR) (50bps for all banks with an additional 100bps for eligible regional banks) amid slower economy and heightened trade uncertainties with the US. While more rate cuts were still priced in, major central banks have higher hurdles to further rate cuts. The division within the FOMC committee was evidenced by their "dots". At the ECB, cutting the interest rate on the deposit facility by only 10bps (to -0.50%), introducing a two-tier system for reserves, not providing a time limit to the policy measures and avoiding a formal vote also suggested differences of views within the ECB. The PBoC has been reinforcing the message of having a prudent monetary policy as it is wary of re-leveraging the Chinese economy with monetary easing. With easy monetary policy reaching the limits of its effectiveness, potential fiscal policy measures have become the renewed focus. Both Germany and the Netherlands announced some fiscal easing measures, with the former in the form of "green energy" while the latter focusing mainly on tax relief for households.

PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF - CONSERVATIVE

2019 finished in a high note for most asset classes. The reason for the broad rally was not because of better global growth. The year-end optimism probably reflected a relief of major geopolitical headwinds, such as an escalation of US-China trade war and a hard Brexit, being avoided for now. Also supportive of the rally were the U-turn in monetary policy across the globe as well as increasing commitment of fiscal spending by major economies. Both US and European core rates sold off in Q4, especially in the long-end of the yield curve. On the trade front, with the US and China agreeing on the Phase One deal, the December 15th tariff hike was avoided, along with a 50% rollback of the September tariff increase. The probability of a hard Brexit was also perceived to have fallen, as the newly-won majority government should allow PM Johnson to break through the parliamentary gridlock and reduce uncertainty. In terms of monetary policy, while the ECB re-started its open-ended QE purchase in October, the US Fed also cut rates for the third time in 2019 and started its purchase of Treasury bills ($60bn a month through at least Q2 2020) to rebuild bank reserves.

Sub-fund performance

The sub-fund outperformed its reference index in 2019, with a performance of 2.26%. The first 3 quarters of the year were positive (3.48%), with a positive performance on both duration and credit positions. The fourth quarter was negative (-1.23%), with rates positions subtracting from performance, as US and European core rates sold off. Conversely, our spread positions had a positive contribution.

Outlook

After a phenomenal year for financial market returns investors are beginning to question the odds of having a repeat of the performance seen in 2019. With the very pre-emptive U-turn in monetary policy by the main central banks last year and positive albeit moderate growth in the world prospects for fixed income and Emerging markets continue to be strong in 2020. As usual there are risks around this view, the Trade War, the escalation of the conflict in the Middle East, the US election, the negotiations around Brexit, Italian politics, political unrest in Latin America, to name a few. Nevertheless, the amount of policy support for markets is also phenomenal, and about to get bigger as many countries start to think about implementing fiscal policy, currently there is very little appetite for a crisis or a more protracted slowdown. As most central banks around the world have eased or will ease policy further, the difference is going to be made by which country can credibly implement fiscal policy. Not that we think that fiscal policy is the panacea, over time its effects fade just like with monetary policy, but as monetary policy begins to be perceived as less effective, we are beginning to witness the loosening of the government purses around the world and that should be a major factor in explaining the dispersion in asset returns over the next few years.

PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF - FIXED INCOME STRATEGY EUR

Management report

Previous year's market review

Last year was marked by renewed policy easing by major central banks throughout the world. Combined with scares about the global economy and trade relations, this produced a significant rally in the bond market and record volumes of negative-yielding debt, although dysfunctions in the repo market caused plenty of angst in the overnight market in August. EM sovereign bonds as well as DM ones, produced double-digit returns, with contagion from problem countries such as Argentina remaining contained. Sovereign bond prices retreated in the final months of the year as the outlook for trade brightened and economic gloom lifted, but a benign economic and market backdrop allowed credit to register strong returns in 2019.

Performance review

The sub-fund returned +3.75% during the year 2019 (A share class). The best performing positions during the period were emerging debt in local currency (Lazard EM LC debt +16.2%), High Yield (Nordea EUR High Yield +10.7%) and emerging debt in hard currency (Pictet EM Corp Bd +9.5%). Principal detractors were 0.875% SNCF Reseau 2029 (-2.3%), 1.5% SNCF 2029 (-2.1%) and global Treasuries 1-10y (SSGA Global Treasuries -1.6%).

The majority of transactions were linked to the replacement of corporate funds with single lines. The exposure to European core and peripheral countries was implemented tactically all over the year, via the purchase of direct holdings. In June, H2O Adagio was sold as the franchise got involved in negative press for holding illiquid assets. In a context of low or negative interest rates in developed countries, we have decided to seize an opportunity in short term emerging debt denominated in hard currency, with the Ashmore EM short duration fund (internally BUY rated). This operation was executed in early November.

The sub-fund is principally invested in quality investment-grade corporate bonds (33%) and government debts (28%). Emerging debts represented 16% and high yields stood at 7%. Short term investment solutions and absolute return strategies amounted to 13% of the portfolio. In terms of duration risk, it remained stable at around 3.3 years all year long.

Current year's outlook for financial markets

By the end of December, the 10-year Treasury yield had risen to over 1.9% from below 1.5% at the start of September, thanks to renewed optimism about the ability of the US economy to avoid recession and progress on trade talks. Further lifting of investor mood could see the 10-year yield move in a higher range than we previously expected in the months ahead and provide scoop to add duration. However, with the US set to deliver disappointing growth in 2020, the room for a further steep rise in Treasury yields could be limited. Against the backdrop of a rising default rate, the US high-yield market will need to be monitored, especially the most highly-leveraged part. The immediate outlook for euro credit, helped by the restart of ECB asset buying, is relatively upbeat.

At the time this management report was established, consequences of the COVID-19 (coronavirus or SARS-CoV-2) outbreak were unknown. Please refer to Note 19.

PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF - EQUITY STRATEGY EUR

Management report

Previous year's market review

After a sharp fall in December 2018, when the S&P 500 lost about 6%, the market was in a grim mood at the start of 2019. Indeed, most of the year was characterized by equity outflows, a move that could readily be justified by virtually non-existent earnings growth over the 12-month period. And yet investors willing to endure the heat and noise generated by trade tensions and a noticeably drop in economic momentum (although later in the US than elsewhere) were amply rewarded. Risk assets were helped to no small degree by the U-turn in Federal Reserve policy, which early in the year intimated that it was putting further rate rises on hold and was considering easing policy instead. The first of three cuts came in July, with the European Central Bank likewise easing policy during the year. Buoyant M&A and robust buy-backs (particularly in the US) likewise contributed to boost equities. Another major factor was low bond yields, which flattered equities and helped justify valuations that remained high.

Performance & activity review

The sub-fund returned +21.08% in 2019 (A share class). The largest contributions came from our global equity holdings, driven by stock picking from our managers focused on quality growth stocks (Cantillon Global Equity, +38%; Egerton Equity Fund, +35.4%; and AKO Global Long-only UCITS, +30%). Given the strong market performance over the period, none of our managers registered negative returns although managers with a value bias (Conventum Lyrical, Artisan Global Value) lagged the broader market.

In the first quarter, we exited our positions in the Longview Global Equity Fund and the Artisan Global Value Fund in favour of an increased allocation to quality managers with the introduction of the AKO Global Long-only UCITS Fund. We expected low global growth and weak earnings to favour companies which could deliver operationally in this environment and continue to grow EPS at a healthy rate against this backdrop. Demanding valuations and rising trade tensions led us to trim our exposure to equities during the second quarter, led by a reduced position in the Pictet Global Defensive Equities Fund and an exit from the Conventum Lyrical Value Fund. Towards the end of the quarter, we switched our passive exposure to Indian equities into an actively-managed fund (Ashoka India Opps) to capitalize on the valuation dispersion between small/mid-caps relative to large caps and took some equity exposure off the table following strong performance in June.

Heading into the third quarter, we were faced with an increasingly differentiated environment for equities with important differences between the market leaders and the laggards and began adding active exposure through single lines. We introduced a number of individual stock positions based on the PWM European Equity Mandate, focused on companies with leading market franchises and benefitting from structural growth, coupled with a short position in EuroStoxx 50 futures. Near the end of the quarter, we took profits on our position in the Consumer Staples Select Sector SPDR ETF and reallocated the proceeds to the PWM Lifescience Certificate, which seeks to capitalize on the Precision Medicine trend, a medical model which proposes the customization of healthcare. Lastly, we added an exposure to global small caps (Kempen Global Small Cap) to capitalize on attractive relative valuations in this space.

The fourth quarter saw some tactical shifts to prepare the portfolio for the year ahead. Our expectations of decelerating US growth and a weaker USD led us to trim our allocation to US equities (S&P 500 futures) in favour of a more balanced global equity exposure (iShares Core MSCI World UCITS ETF). Additionally, we trimmed part of our exposure to global quality managers following their stellar performance over the year and reallocated the proceeds to a more value-oriented manager with a notable exposure to EM equities, financials, and IT (D&C Global Stock Fund).

Current year's outlook for financial markets

Markets are on the front foot as we enter the new year. There is certainly room for optimism, at least of the cautious variety. US-China relations are showing signs of thawing, while holiday sales and good job numbers point to US consumer spending remaining healthy. In Europe, a measure of clarity surrounding the road to Brexit was provided by the UK general election in December, while hopeful signs have started to emerge that the slowdown may be bottoming out in Germany. Growth in Japan is likely to be boosted by fresh fiscal stimulus announced in December, with the Chinese authorities also pushing (carefully) on the policy levers to ensure that China glides down to a sustainable, more comfortable long-term growth path. Going into 2020, emerging markets are benefiting from signs of a rebound in commodities, led by a rebound in oil, as well as by a lowering of trade tensions, which could lessen the attractiveness of the US dollar. Risk assets could falter again, especially as international tensions remain and the world economy is by no means out of the woods. All in all, investors probably cannot count on the low volatility of recent months holding throughout 2020. At this stage, it is difficult to see a repeat of the double-digit returns registered by a whole range of assets last year.

At the time this management report was established, consequences of the COVID-19 (coronavirus or SARS-CoV-2) outbreak were unknown. Please refer to Note 19.

June 2020

PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF - CSR BOND STRATEGIE (EUR)

Management report

Market review

The main bottleneck factor of the financial crisis, the monumental levels of national debt in all developed countries, remained unchanged while economic growth rates around the globe tend to lower. The ECB did not change interest rates but renewed its security purchasing program at the beginning of November by 20 billions per month. The FED adjusted its monetary policy and decided to reduce the interest rates three times in a row. There were several political instabilities last year, especially the tariff agreements between the United States, China and several other countries including the European Union and the negotiations about the Brexit. Nonetheless, interest rates in the Euro-Zone (for the most part at least) seemed to be unimpressed by this uncertainty and remained on a low level.

Over the first eight months, the interest rate in Germany (yield of the 10-year German government bonds) showed a downward trend and reached its lowest level of -0.70% at the end of August. From this point there was a countermovement until the end of December. In the meantime there were several up and down movements in a range of approximately 0.10% and 0.20%. These movements offered some opportunities to adjust the duration in an anticyclical way between 2.0 and 4.5 years.

At the end of 2018, the yield of the 10-year German government bond was 0.24%, at the end of 2019 it was -0.19%. At the short end of the yield curve, the 1-year German government bond yield decreased from -0.57% to -0.64% in the same period.

The German covered bonds spread against German sovereigns lowered by low double digit basispoints on the long end, whereas the short end of the yield curve stayed -more or less-unaffected.

Pursuing our agenda to avoid risk in the ongoing crisis, there has been no exposure in other European markets to date in spite of higher yield levels, except one investment in Austria (mortgage bond).

Investment Strategy

The sub-fund is predominantly invested in German (mortgage) covered bonds ("Hypothekenpfandbriefe") from approximately 1 to 10 years maturity. It is the intention of the portfolio management to keep the underlying unchanged if it is possible and reasonable. The duration is managed predominantly by derivatives.

The idea of controlling the duration of the sub-fund is to vary it in an anticyclical way, which means we increase the duration if the yield is increasing (which means bond prices are falling) and vice versa. The duration range of the portfolio is controlled between 2 to 7.25 years predominantly via Bund-Futures and in addition by selling calls and puts on this instrument. At the beginning of the year we set our trading range between -0.25% and 1.25% (10-year German government bond yield). Within this trading range, a duration of 2 would have been applicable as soon as the interest rate would have reached -0.25% and a duration of 7.25 years would have been applicable at an interest rate level of 1.25%. At the end of August, we adjusted the trading range due to decreasing yields (in combination with lower forecasts from most of the analysts) to a range of -0,75% to 1,00%.

As previously mentioned, there were no holdings in European sovereigns in the fund in 2019. Comparable to 2018, it was the same active decision of the portfolio management in 2019 to avoid risk and invest in safety, which means German (mortgage) covered bonds, knowing to possibly give up short term chances in return.

We kept looking for further attractive investments with sustainability focus, but could not find opportunities during the last 12 months. The sustainability bond sector is now represented by approximately 6.0% of the portfolio NAV.

The sub-fund performance in 2019 was 1.13%, while sub-fund volatility amounted to only 1.18% vs. 2.01% benchmark (REX-P \otimes) volatility during the last 12 months. The benchmark performance (REX-P \otimes) was 1.14%.

Outlook

The investment strategy of CSR (as is generally known) is not based on forecasts of the market. We tend to maintain our strategy of investing in high quality German covered bonds and controlling the duration in an anticyclical way as we have done in the past.

We will continue to seek additional opportunities in bonds with sustainability focus (max. 10% of total assets) during the next months in order to stabilize returns and to improve diversification. But: Yield is not the only story. Lower credit quality increases default risk which can be acute as we approach the end of an economic cycle. It is very important to us to temper expectations about bond returns and make sure they have high credit quality as we could experience some volatility as we near the end of the current business cycle over the next one or two years.

"Following its weakest performance since the global financial crisis, the world economy is poised for a modest rebound this year- if everything goes just right.

Hanging over this lethargic recovery are two other trends that raise questions about the course of economic growth: the unprecedented run-up in debt worldwide, and the prolonged deceleration of productivity growth, which needs to pick up to bolster standards of living and poverty eradication. Global growth is set to rise by 2.5% this year, a small uptick from 2.4% in 2019, as trade and investment gradually recover, the World Bank's semi-annual Global Economic Prospects forecasts."

Regarding possible developments in Europe, Russell Investments concludes in its economic outlook as follows:

"[...] Europe's exposure to trade and reliance on manufacturing made it a casualty of the trade war and the global downturn in automobile production. 2019 saw the European Central Bank (ECB) take policy rates further negative and re-start quantitative easing. The Eurozone should benefit in 2020 from easier monetary conditions, the recovery in global manufacturing, the lifting of trade-war uncertainty and Chinese policy stimulus that increases import demand from emerging markets. [...]

Overall, we look for a gradual pick-up in growth across the Eurozone during 2020. The absence of inflation pressure means the ECB is unlikely to consider lifting interest rates."

General comments

Last year was marked by renewed policy easing by major central banks throughout the world. Combined with scares about the global economy and trade relations, this produced a significant rally in the bond market and record volumes of negative-yielding debt, although dysfunctions in the repo market caused plenty of angst in the overnight market in August. EM sovereign bonds as well as DM ones, produced double-digit returns, with contagion from problem countries such as Argentina remaining contained. Sovereign bond prices retreated in the final months of the year as the outlook for trade brightened and economic gloom lifted.

In spite of continued earnings downgrades, equities had a stellar year in 2019, with developed-market indices rising in the region of 30%. While a steadily brightening mood, helped by monetary easing, meant that growth stocks remained at the forefront of the bull market and the tech-oriented Nasdaq returned about 40% (in USD), even more defensive, 'value' oriented indexes like Japan's Topix registered healthy double-digit returns. Emerging-market equities underperformed, but after a roller-coaster ride the MSCI EM Index still notched up a total return of around 20% by the end of 2019, helped by policy stimulus, especially in China as well as the US, a lessening of trade tensions and an upturn in commodity prices, particularly oil prices.

Portfolio comments

The overall consolidated portfolio in EUR performed very well (+26.97% during the year 2019), so did the individual sub-portfolios on an absolute basis.

The large "US equities portfolio" in USD performed similar to the S&P500 index, if one neglects a partial hedge (short index futures) which was in place for a few months earlier in the reporting year. The result compares again favorably to about 80% of active managers which fell short of achieving the benchmark performance.

The also large "Swiss equities portfolio" in CHF showed a substantial outperformance compared to the large cap Swiss Market Index (SMI) benchmark. This was mainly due a very strong bet in a long-position on Nestle shares. No beta risk hedge was implemented in this sub-account.

Once more, both portfolios profited from a successful, albeit very different approach in stock selection. The US equity part was once more composed of a well-diversified, low turnover, high quality and high conviction portfolio. The Swiss equity part was clearly less diversified: as said, a very substantial amount was invested in Nestlé ...

Finally, the "Private equity portfolio" also had a remarkable year, producing double-digit returns.

Outlook going forward

Markets are on the front foot as we enter the new year. There is certainly room for optimism, at least of the cautious variety. US-China relations are showing signs of thawing, while holiday sales and good job numbers point to US consumer spending remaining healthy. In Europe, a measure of clarity surrounding the road to Brexit was provided by the UK general election in December, while hopeful signs have started to emerge that the slowdown may be bottoming out in Germany. Growth in Japan is likely to be boosted by fresh fiscal stimulus announced in December, with the Chinese authorities also pushing (carefully) on the policy levers to ensure that China glides down to a sustainable, more comfortable long-term growth path. Going into 2020, emerging markets are benefiting from signs of a rebound in commodities, led by a rebound in oil, as well as by a lowering of trade tensions, which could lessen the attractiveness of the US dollar. Not only did the final weeks of 2019 see a turnaround in the fortunes of energy stocks, but banks in the US and Europe have also started to reflect a steepening of yield curves, the growing resistance to further rate cuts and consistent central bank support for a sector that generally remains on the mend. Yet, while equities could benefit from the 'fear of missing out" which was leading to a revival in equity inflows toward the end of 2019, the recent rise in bond yields means it is becoming harder to justify elevated equity valuations, especially as earnings growth could remain modest in 2020, leaving dividends and buybacks to drive shareholder returns. Importantly, it is unusual to see bonds and equities to supply positive returns in unison, as they did in 2019. Further improvements in the economic picture could lead to a continuation of the recent rise in bond yields and drop in prices. Alternatively, risk assets could falter again, especially as international tensions remain and the world economy is by no means out of the woods. All in all, investors probably cannot count on the low volatility of recent months holding throughout 2020. At this stage, it is difficult to see a repeat of the double-digit returns registered by a whole range of assets last year.

Nevertheless, we would not be surprised if equity markets in particular had another quite good start into a new year. This positive trend could last for a while, but right now our outlook is somewhat more cautious for the second half of the year.

Previous year's market review

After a sharp fall in December 2018, when the S&P 500 lost about 6%, the market was in a grim mood at the start of this year. Indeed, most of 2019 was characterised by equity outflows, a move that could readily be justified by virtually non-existent earnings growth over the 12-month period. And yet investors willing to endure the heat and noise generated by trade tensions and a noticeably drop in economic momentum (although later in the US than elsewhere) were amply rewarded. Risk assets were helped to no small degree by the U-turn in Federal Reserve policy, which early in the year intimated that it was putting further rate rises on hold and was considering easing policy instead. The first of three cuts came in July, with the European Central Bank likewise easing policy during the year. Buoyant M&A and robust buy-backs (particularly in the US) likewise contributed to boost equities.

Another major factor was low bond yields, which flattered equities and helped justify valuations that remained constantly high. Bond yields slid for much of the year, with the volume of negative-yielding debt reaching a peak of USD17 trn in mid-August. However, negative yielding debt started to melt in the late-summer sun as investors began to question the gloomiest prognostics for economic growth and negative interest rates reached their limit. Nevertheless, 2019 was a highly successful year for fixed-income investors, helped not least by a fall of about 75 bps in the US 10-year Treasury yield. The hunt for yield helped boost previously beatendown areas of the European sovereign market, such as Italian and even Greek debt. In spite of a rising default rate in US high yield, credit markets put in a robust performance in 2019. Investors in EM debt also made double-digit returns, with problems in countries like Turkey and Argentina remaining isolated.

Performance review

The sub-fund returned +5.59% during the year 2019 (A share class). The best performing positions during the period were Emerging Markets Debt in local currency (Lazard GIF-EM Local Debt +15.79%) and Investment Grade Corporate Bonds (DCI UF-Global Investment Grade Corporate Bond +15.12% and PIMCO-Global Investment Grade Credit Fund +14.32%). The main detractor was Pictet-Ultra Short Term Bond -0.12%.

The sub-fund is principally invested in quality investment grade corporate bonds (29%) and government debts (21%). Emerging debts represented 13% and high yields 6%. Short term investment solutions and absolute return strategies amounted to 25% of the portfolio.

In February, we decided to take profits on our exposure in floating rate notes (Amundi Is-Floating Rate Usd Corporate Etf +1.06%). One of the major investment decision was to double our position in Lazard Emerging Local Currency Debt in March as the House view became bullish on the sub-asset class. The rationale was the Fed's dovish U-turn that was deemed as positive for Emerging Markets in general, and in particular for Emerging local debts. In June, we also switched half of the position in H2O Adagio into H2O Multibonds to take advantage of a significant decrease of the performance. In July, in order to reduce cash that yielded negatively, we added Pictet- Ultra Short Term Bond.

In September, we took profits H2O Adagio (+3.25%) and H2O Multibonds (+13.93%). This followed the good performance year-to-date and the announcement of an increase in indicative average leverage level for Adagio (100% to 600%). We considered this as a material change in the sub-fund's risk profile.

Performance & activity review

The sub-fund returned +21.63% in 2019 (A share class). The largest contributions came from our global equity holdings, driven by stock picking from our managers focused on quality growth stocks (Cantillon Global Equity, +35.4%; and AKO Global Long-only UCITS, +33%). Our European managers did a good job as well, with funds such as Schroder special situation delivering nice performance (+36%). Given the strong market performance over the period, none of our managers registered negative returns although managers with a value bias (Conventum Lyrical, Mainfirst Top European ideas) lagged the broader market.

In the first quarter, we reduced our position in the Longview Global Equity Fund in favour of an increased allocation to quality managers with the introduction of the AKO Global Long-only UCITS Fund. We expected low global growth and weak earnings to favour companies which could deliver operationally in this environment and continue to grow EPS at a healthy rate against this backdrop. Demanding valuations and rising trade tensions led us to trim our exposure to equities during the second quarter, led by a reduced position in the Pictet Global Defensive Equities Fund, Longview Global Equity Fund and Pictet USA index.

In the third quarter, we increased the equity exposure by adding to global small caps (Kempen Global Small Cap) to capitalize on attractive relative valuations in this space.

The fourth quarter saw some tactical shifts to prepare the portfolio for the year ahead. We took some profits in quality growth by reducing Sturdza Quality Europe Fund and we sold the Ishares MSCI emerging market tracker. In order to keep constant the total equity exposure, we bought back some short future contracts. We also bought put options on the Russell 2000 index, in order to benefit from the low implied volatility on index and protect the portfolio in case of shocks.

PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF - MULTIASSETS

Management report

During the year 2019 the cash position of PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF - MULTIASSETS increased to 16%. The equities ratio was reduced slightly from 24% to 23%. About half of the exposure in equities is invested in gold, silver and platinum mining companies due to the conviction that there's a lot of value in this segment. The allocation to precious metals (mainly through ETFs) was slightly below 6%.

Due to the low interest rate environment there are no significant investments to public fixed income.

In 2019, the fund further increased the allocation to alternative investments (Hedge Funds and Private Market Funds) to more than 55% of the portfolio. The investment manager is convinced that Private Market returns will outperform public markets over long term although valuations and multiples of portfolio companies indicate that they are no longer cheap. In order to reduce the duration, some shorter-term commitments were made, mainly in Private Debt.

On the currency side, the main positions (by risk currency) were USD (49%) and EUR (16%). As the USD strengthened against the EUR in 2019, the performance of the fund was again affected slightly positively.

PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF - MULTIASSETS had a very successful 2019 with substantial profits in all asset classes (equities, metals & alternative investments). The Brazilian company that IPOed late 2018 and still one of the core positions of PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF - MULTIASSETS was again one of the key drivers for the performance. The investment manager took the opportunity and realized some profits. As precious metals prices have risen sharply in 2019, mining stocks have surged and, in most cases, more than doubled. Some of the profits have also been realized.

The funds' performance in EUR for the year 2019 was +32.48%.

PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF - MULTIASSETS continues to pursue a prudent investment strategy with a widely diversified portfolio in terms of asset classes, regions, sectors and currencies.

At the time this management report was established, consequences of the COVID-19 (coronavirus or SARS-CoV-2) outbreak were unknown. Please refer to Note 19.

June 2020

PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF - SEMIORKA BOND FUND

Management report

Investors will long remember 2019 as an excellent vintage. Following the Federal Reserve's monetary policy pivot in January, global financial markets swapped to and remained in a 'risk-on' mode for most of the year. It is interesting to note that, based on a Deutsche Bank study monitoring annual performance of 38 non-currency assets, it is the first time since the study began in 2007 that all 38 assets delivered positive returns – this is in stark contrast to 2018, when 31 of the 38 had a negative performance. Arguably, it may be some time until we witness another year in which gains are as impressive. In many respects, 2019 has been a year in which macroeconomic fears have gradually melted away. Worries of a US recession and excessive monetary tightening appear now largely forgotten. Fixed income sectors delivered strong performance this year benefitting from interest-rate declines and credit spread compression across the board. There were more than 65 policy rate cuts by central banks across the globe during the year. It's also worth noting that credit spreads in some sub-sectors have now reached new all-time lows and negative yielding securities peaked at over $17 trillion in value

The sub-fund posted a compelling absolute and relative performance for the year. It returned 8.84% (institutional, Euro share class) net of fees versus +1.5% for the Bloomberg Barclays Global Aggregate 1-5 year Euro hedged Index. Over a rolling three-year period, the sub-fund is up +9.8% net of fees versus 0.5% for the index. The sub-fund recovered expediently from the mark-to-market drawdown that it experienced last year thanks to few key decisions that we have taken. Indeed, as mentioned earlier, markets reacted positively to the FED's dovish pivot in January and, as a result, we progressively reinforced the positions where we expected significant price recovery. This action proved valuable as most of those positions performed very well in 2019. One such example is a fund specialised in bonds issued by insurance companies which returned -8.3% in 2018. While not sure of the timing, we expected that the fund would rebound at some point given the credit strength involved and, thus, we reinforced that position during the year. The fund performed very well in 2019 returning +8.84% for J EUR Cap, and we subsequently trimmed it back to a more neutral position.

All sub-strategy sleeves contributed positively to the sub-fund's annual return. The total return bond sleeve was the biggest contributor and accounted for about 70% of the sub-fund's annual return. Early in the year, we also increased the allocation in the opportunistic bond beta strategy sleeve to take advantage of the opportunities created during the sell-off in the fourth quarter of 2018. Most of these tactical positions were implemented using liquid instruments where possible and were closes during the year having contributed almost 2.5% to the sub-fund's total return.

As we venture into the new year, we are cognisant of the fact that valuations are more stretched across the board and will certainly influence future returns. Capital preservation is paramount to us and we have taken advantage of the strong market to reposition the sub-fund to this end.

After a sharp fall in December 2018, the market was in a grim mood at the start of this year. Risk assets were helped to no small degree by the change in Federal Reserve policy, which early in the year intimated that it was putting further rate rises on hold and was considering easing policy instead.

The first of three cuts came in July, with the European Central Bank likewise easing policy during the year and this path has been followed by other Central Banks worldwide. This context of more expansive monetary policies with the end of quantitative tightening has led to a structural volatility decrease on both the bond and the equity markets.

After the summer, the positive evolution of the trade war between US and China was another important supporting factor for the investors' risk appetite.

The trade war took its toll on global growth and this effect was more visible in the in the first half of the year. Trade tensions have contributed to the longest deterioration in corporate sentiment on record. Later in the year, the hopes of a US-China trade truce led to a rebound between August and November, putting an end to six months of contraction.

Finally, the low bond yields helped justify valuations that remained constantly high through the year.

Besides equity, 2019 was a highly successful year also for fixed-income investors: the hunt for yield helped boost previously beaten-down areas of the European sovereign market, namely Italy and Greece. Among the Emerging countries, the problems in Turkey and Argentina remained isolated.

2019 Portfolio activity

In the first half of the year, we tactically used derivatives (typically equity index futures on the American and European markets) for hedging purposes, whereas we increased the equity exposure in second part of the year. In the expectation of the US-China truce, the equity increase targeted some Asian emerging markets, mainly China and India.

The latter remains an attractive destination because growth, though slowing, remains high. The former is already showing signs of recovery thanks to the 'phase one' trade deal with the US and a continued, albeit measured, policy stimulus.

During the last quarter we have moved to an overweight stance on European currencies (euro, Swiss franc) versus the US dollar to reflect the evaporating growth and rate differentials that have helped the American currency.

Despite maintaining a significant share of liquidity and overall a low duration, we recorded a positive performance contribution in the fixed income exposure (+2.15%). Negative was the contribution of alternative strategies (-0.56%).

In 2019 the fund total performance is 6.12% (Eur). Equity was the best contributor with +4.63%.

We are late in the economic cycle, but we are not convinced that recession is imminent.

We expect global growth to slow again in 2020, from 3.0% this year to 2.9%, with advanced economies slowing from 1.7% to 1.0%. We see euro area growth slipping from 1.2% this year to 1.0% in 2020 and UK growth could decline from 1.1% to 0.7%.

We expect Chinese growth to slow from 6.2% in 2019 to 5.9% and Japanese growth from 0.8% to 0.3% due to external demand issues. We expect the Indian economy to rebound in H2 2020, with 5.7% growth for fiscal year 2020.

Vital to avoiding a downturn will be continued policy support. With the effectiveness of monetary policy diminishing, fiscal measures will play a more important role in keeping economies on an even keel. After a strong 2019 (despite almost no earnings growth) valuations for S&P 500 equities have reached a 17.8x 12-month forward earnings. With sovereign yields set to stay low, we expect equity valuations to remain elevated in 2020.

With markets looking relatively expensive and few visible upside drivers, low rates and the lack of alternatives will provide some support.

Forward indicators show that the US is slowing: the extent to which manufacturing spills over into consumer confidence and spending will be crucial to watch. A possible near-term source of volatility in US equities will be the clear emergence of a Democratic candidate for the November presidential election.

We have a constructive stance on countries adopting fiscal expansion measures like France as well as India and China. We therefore favor quality cyclical stocks as well as structural growth stocks that can grow independently of the market cycle. Given subdued earnings growth and bond yields, we like dividend-growing companies as well as companies with pricing power.

The expected increase in the volatility also means the time is ripe to build protection in the form of options and to forestall future dollar weakness by buying gold.

Management report

2019 review

After 2018, a poor year for the financial markets, 2019 has been a positive year for almost all the asset classes.

2019 has been characterized by two important turning points: the Fed massive U-turn at the beginning of the year and the positive evolution of the trade war between US and China.

The market expectation of three rate hikes by the Fed turned out to be wrong. The Fed cut three times the interest rate ("insurance cuts") and during the year revised the path of downsizing its balance sheet. The first of three cuts came in July, with the European Central Bank likewise easing policy during the year and this path has been followed by other Central Banks worldwide. This context of more expansive monetary policies with the end of quantitative tightening has led to a structural volatility decrease on both the bond and the equity markets.

In 2019 the trade war took its toll on global growth and this effect was more visible in the in the first half of the year. Trade tensions have contributed to the longest deterioration in corporate sentiment on record (World PMI for manufacturing deteriorated from 54.4 in December 2017 to 49.3 in July 2019). Later in the year, the hopes of a US-China trade truce led to a rebound between August and November, when the index rose to 50.3, putting an end to six months of contraction.

In this context, another major factor was low bond yields, which flattered equities and helped justify valuations that remained constantly high. Bond yields slid for much of the year, with the volume of negative-yielding debt reaching a peak of USD 17 trillion in the of the summer. 2019 was a highly successful year also for fixed-income investors, helped not least by a fall of about 75 bps in the US 10-year Treasury yield. The hunt for yield helped boost previously beatendown areas of the European sovereign market, such as Italian and even Greek debt. In the corporate space, despite a rising default rate in US high yield, credit markets put in a robust performance in 2019.

In 2019 the sub-fund total performance is 6.40% (EUR). Equities was the best contributor with 4.84%.

In the first half of the year we tactically used derivatives (typically equity index futures on the American and European markets) for hedging purposes, whereas we increased the equity exposure in second part of the year. In the expectation of the US-China truce, the equity increase targeted some direct investments and the Asian emerging markets, mainly China and India. The latter remains an attractive destination because growth, though slowing, remains high (we expect 5.9% GDP growth next year). Indeed, manufacturing is already showing signs of recovery, while the 'phase one' trade deal with the US and continued, albeit measured policy stimulus should give the Chinese economy a shot in the arm. Compared with equities elsewhere, Chinese stocks look fairly valued (with a 12-month forward price-earnings ratio of 12.3x), while earnings per share expectations (about 12%) for next year are relatively attractive and, contrary to developed-market equities, are being revised upward.

PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF - WORLDWIDE OPPORTUNITY

During the last quarter we have moved to an overweight stance on European currencies (Euro, Swiss franc) versus the US dollar to reflect the evaporating growth and rate differentials that have helped the American currency.

Despite maintaining a significant share of liquidity and overall a low duration, we recorded a positive performance contribution in the fixed income exposure (+2.11%). Our investments in EM debt also made significant returns, with problems in countries like Turkey and Argentina remaining isolated.

Negative was the contribution of alternative strategies (-0.49%).

Whether trade wars further impact the economic cycle - hurting, in sequence, business confidence, then investment, employment, consumer confidence and then consumption - will be paramount for the direction of markets in 2020.

With global growth spluttering we need to see either an end to the trade war or a decisive turn in economic policy-making.

We believe we will have something in between, with accommodative monetary policies and tepid fiscal policies helping to contain further worries over politics and trade, helping prop up growth to some extent.

After a strong 2019 (despite almost no earnings growth) valuations for S&P 500 equities have reached a lofty 17.8x 12-month forward earnings. With sovereign yields set to stay low, we expect equity valuations to remain elevated in 2020.

We think the steep decline in earnings growth is bottoming out, and emerging-market debt could continue to perform if the dollar weakens.

An imminent recession is not in sight, as long as fiscal and monetary policies support economies. Our favors go to countries undertaking fiscal stimulus.

From a macroeconomic point of view, we expect global growth to slow in 2020, from 3.0% this year to 2.9%, with advanced economies slowing from 1.7% to 1.0%.

We forecast US GDP growth to decelerate further in 2020, with slowing business investment catching up on the labor market. We see euro area growth slipping from 1.2% this year to 1.0% in 2020. UK growth could decline from 1.1% to 0.7%.

We expect Chinese growth to slow from 6.2% in 2019 to 5.9% and Japanese growth from 0.8% to 0.3% due to external demand issues. We expect the Indian economy to rebound in H2 2020, with 5.7% growth for fiscal year 2020–21

We remain neutral global equities overall, seeing the US elections, continued trade tensions and a spillover of manufacturing weakness to consumer spending as potential sources of volatility.

Vital to avoiding a downturn will be continued policy support. We expect the European Central Bank (ECB) to maintain a very loose monetary stance while fine-tuning some of its policy tools. With the effectiveness of monetary policy diminishing, fiscal measures will play a more important role in keeping economies on an even keel.

In equities, we favor structural growers that can grow independently of the market cycle as well as quality cyclical growth stocks with pricing power. Dividend-growing companies at a time of weak earnings growth are another focus of attention.

We remain constructive on EM sovereign debt in local currency.

Increased volatility ahead also means the time is ripe to build protection in the form of options and to forestall future dollar weakness by buying gold.

Looking Back

After a sharp fall in December 2018, when the S&P 500 lost about 6%, the market was in a grim mood at the start of this year. Indeed, most of 2019 was characterized by equity outflows - a move that could readily be justified by virtually non-existent earnings growth over the 12-month period. And yet investors willing to endure the heat and noise generated by trade tensions and a noticeably drop in economic momentum (although later in the US than elsewhere) were amply rewarded. Risk assets were helped to no small degree by the U-turn in Federal Reserve policy, which early in the year intimated that it was putting further rate rises on hold and was considering easing policy instead. The first of three cuts came in July, with the European Central Bank likewise easing policy during the year. Buoyant M&A and robust buy-backs (particularly in the US) likewise contributed to boost equities. Another major factor was low bond yields, which flattered equities and helped justify valuations that remained constantly high. Bond yields slid for much of the year, with the volume of negative-yielding debt reaching a peak of USD 17 trn in mid-August. However, negative yielding debt started to melt in the late-summer sun as investors began to question the gloomiest prognostics for economic growth and negative interest rates reached their limit. Nevertheless, 2019 was a highly successful year for fixedincome investors, helped not least by a fall of about 75 bps in the US 10-year Treasury yield. The hunt for yield helped boost previously beaten-down areas of the European sovereign market, such as Italian and even Greek debt. In spite of a rising default rate in US high yield, credit markets put in a robust performance in 2019. Investors in EM debt also made double-digit returns, with problems in countries like Turkey and Argentina remaining isolated.

Performance review

The portfolio returned +18.7% in 2019 on the back of a strong performances environment for risk assets. As of the end of the year, the allocation was split between 17.1% of cash, 37.8% in bonds, 42.6% in equities, 1.7% in precious metals and finally 0.7% in Alternative Investments. In terms of currency exposure the portfolio was well diversified with largest allocations as follows 44% in USD, 27% in Euros. While the Euro portion of portfolio was more tilted towards risk asset, USD portfolio had a more significant portion of Fixed Income assets given higher yields for USD instruments. Duration of USD Fixed Income Portfolio stood at 2.71 vs. 1.35 for Euros portfolio. USD bond average yields were around 2.5% with only 0.14% for euro denominated bonds. With the increase of bonds prices and subsequent drop of yields, profits were taken on USD bonds and floating rate notes during 2019.

Equity allocation was kept stable during the correction of December 2018 which proved beneficial in 2019. The decision to take profits on a few stocks after positive months of January-February paid off.

Most of the positive performance was generated during the first and last quarters of 2019, as portfolio slightly declined in the middle of the year hurt by political volatility, tensions between US-China, fears of recessions and volatility of oil prices. Within our equity allocation, portfolio kept its regional bias towards Emerging Markets and Russia.

Looking Forward

Markets are on the front foot as we enter the new year. There is certainly room for optimism, at least of the cautious variety. US-China relations are showing signs of thawing, while holiday sales and good job numbers point to US consumer spending remaining healthy. In Europe, a measure of clarity surrounding the road to Brexit was provided by the UK general election in December, while hopeful signs have started to emerge that the slowdown may be bottoming out in Germany. Growth in Japan is likely to be boosted by fresh fiscal stimulus announced in December, with the Chinese authorities also pushing (carefully) on the policy levers to ensure that China glides down to a sustainable, more comfortable long-term growth path. Going into 2020, emerging markets are benefiting from signs of a rebound in commodities, led by a rebound in oil, as well as by a lowering of trade tensions, which could lessen the attractiveness of the US dollar. Not only did the final weeks of 2019 see a turnaround in the fortunes of energy stocks, but banks in the US and Europe have also started to reflect a steepening of yield curves, the growing resistance to further rate cuts and consistent central bank support for a sector that generally remains on the mend. Yet, while equities could benefit from the 'fear of missing out" which was leading to a revival in equity inflows toward the end of 2019, the recent rise in bond yields means it is becoming harder to justify elevated equity valuations, especially as earnings growth could remain anaemic in 2020, leaving dividends and buybacks to drive shareholder returns. Importantly, it is unusual to see bonds and equities to supply positive returns in unison, as they did in 2019. Further improvements in the economic picture could lead to a continuation of the recent rise in bond yields and drop in prices. Alternatively, risk assets could falter again, especially as international tensions remain and the world economy is by no means out of the woods. All in all, investors probably cannot count on the low volatility of recent months holding throughout 2020, At this stage, it is difficult to see a repeat of the double-digit returns registered by a whole range of assets last year.

Previous year's market review

Investors willing to endure the heat and noise generated by trade tensions and a noticeably drop in economic momentum (although later in the US than elsewhere) were amply rewarded. Risk assets were helped to no small degree by the U-turn in Federal Reserve policy, which early in the year intimated that it was putting further rate rises on hold and was considering easing policy instead. The first of three cuts came in July, with the European Central Bank likewise easing policy during the year. Buoyant M&A and robust buy-backs (particularly in the US) likewise contributed to boost equities.

Another major factor was low bond yields, which flattered equities and helped justify valuations that remained constantly high. Bond yields slid for much of the year, with the volume of negative-yielding debt reaching a peak of USD17 trn in mid-August. However, negative yielding debt started to melt in the late-summer sun as investors began to question the gloomiest prognostics for economic growth and negative interest rates reached their limit. Nevertheless, 2019 was a highly successful year for fixed-income investors, helped not least by a fall of about 75 bps in the US 10-year Treasury yield. The hunt for yield helped boost previously beatendown areas of the European sovereign market, such as Italian and even Greek debt. In spite of a rising default rate in US high yield, credit markets put in a robust performance in 2019.

While low volatility continued to be an issue for hedge funds intent on producing alpha and the strong returns produced by 'traditional' assets meant the spotlight turned away somewhat from alternatives, 2019 was nevertheless a good year for alternatives. Low yields and outflows from equity funds during most of the year benefited investments in real assets. In addition, corporate events like M&A proved a boon for at least some hedge-fund strategies.

Performance review

Since the beginning of the year, the allocation across asset classes has remained fairly stable with only some slight tactical adjustments between fixed income and equities. The two asset classes represent approximatively 75% of the sub-fund's assets while the remaining part is invested in Hedge Funds, Gold and short-term money market instruments. In addition, some commitments have been made into private equity investments, which are in the early stages of capital deployment.

During the first quarter, exposure to equities was slightly reduced in order to take some profits. The proceeds of the reduction in equities were reinvested in Global treasuries and short-term US government bonds. Given the deterioration in economic data coupled with escalating trade tensions between the US and China, it was decided to adopt a more defensive stance in May. Hence, allocation to equities were further reduced and the resulting cash was gradually redeployed into fixed income over the following months. In the same respect and after the sharp decline in yields, the portfolio duration risk was mitigated during the last quarter by switching part of the remaining long-term government bonds into shorter ones.

The sub-fund generated a net return of +15.4% (dividend-adjusted) in 2019, fuelled by the good performance of the equity bucket, led by Lukoil which has continued to outperform. The asset class had a stellar year, thanks to accommodative central banks and as trade tensions and fears of a global recession have eased over the last months of the year. Most other asset classes also contributed positively: the decline in bond yields have provided support to fixed income and Gold while Hedge Funds benefited from the risk-on environment with all underlying strategies ending the year in positive territory. Conversely, the decision to keep an exposure to EUR through money market instruments weighed slightly on the performance.

Current year's outlook for financial markets

Markets are on the front foot as we enter the new year. There is certainly room for optimism, at least of the cautious variety. US-China relations are showing signs of thawing, while holiday sales and good job numbers point to US consumer spending remaining healthy. In Europe, a measure of clarity surrounding the road to Brexit was provided by the UK general election in December, while hopeful signs have started to emerge that the slowdown may be bottoming out in Germany. All in all, investors probably cannot count on the low volatility of recent months holding throughout 2020. By contrast, the prospect of much lower returns from equities and bonds in 2020 should ensure alternatives retain their interest for long-term investors willing to accept the illiquidity premium that comes attached, especially as alternative investments extend their reach into Asia and elsewhere.

The portfolio returned +16.24% in 2019 on the back of a strong performances environment for risk assets. As of the end of the year, the allocation was split between 11% of cash, 26.5% in bonds, 45.5% in equities and finally 17% in Alternative Investments.

In the equities, after the correction of December 2018, we quickly sold the Euro STOXX 50 and S&P 500 put options in the PWM Long Diversified Volatility Basket. Beginning of March and in May, we reduced the Ishares MSCI World following the strong rebound of the markets, as markets valuation were becoming demanding. We also bought put options in the PWM Long Diversified Volatility Basket to protect partially the portfolio in case of market correction. That markets' fall didn't happen and we lost most of the prime we paid for the put options. In the second half of the year, as our positioning was defensive and we identified some opportunities on valuations, we increased the cyclical / value bias, buying the Ishares Small Cap. We were encouraged by the increasingly accommodative central banks and the announcement of a "phase 1" US-China trade deal. Among the trades in single lines we switched Goldman Sachs on Fidelity National, Apple on Cognizant Technology Solutions and Bristol Myers Squibb on Merck & Co.

Bonds consisted mainly in sovereign (15%) and corporates (5%). The fixed income was slightly reduced throughout 2019 from 27.5% to 26.5%. In the first quarter, we lowered the allocation to US government bonds in favour of an investment grade global Corporate exposure, via the purchase of the Pimco – Gig Credit Instit. (2%). In September, we switched the all maturities share class for the 1-10y position (SSGA-Global Treasury 1-10 Bond Index Fund). The other main investment decision was the introduction of Lazard Emerging Local Currency Debt as the House view became bullish on the sub-asset class. The rationale was the Fed's dovish U-turn that was deemed as positive for Emerging Markets in general, and in particular for Emerging local debts.

In term of contribution, the following asset classes contributed positively: Fixed Income (+267bps), equities (+1283bps) and Alternative Investments (+0.68bps). Only the cash contributed negatively (-8bps). Finally, the best contributors line by line were the Pictet USA Index (+2.00%) and the Ishares Core MSCI World (+1.31%), while the long volatility baskets (-0.36%) and the Pleiad (-0.13%) were among the only negative contributors.

After the sharp fall we experienced last quarter of 2018 due to the perception (created by the FED) of the ending party (liquidity), the U-Turn by the FED speakers at the begin of the year created the condition for a parallel rebound of the markets

At the end 2019 has been a "goldilocks" year for financial assets, as US Stocks indexes reached record highs; Indexes elsewhere were not far behind thanks to a brightening trade picture and declining concerns about the global economy thanks to the perception of a persistent positive attitude declared and put in practice by Central Banks all around the world.

Central Banks are still the main game in town; in terms of average earnings per shares 2018 has been a fantastic year and the market closed down (MSCI World closed at -10.44%); 2019, if we exclude the recession periods, has been one of the worst year in history in terms of incremental earnings: MSCI World ended the year at +25%

In 2019 the sub-fund performance, net of fees and charges, has been +6.53% (in EUR) due mostly to Equities, bonds and multi asset gave a positive contribution, alternative investments were slightly positive as well and the currency exposure contributed to the positive performance with almost half a percentage point.

The year turned out to be one of the best ever in term of asset class bearing a positive return many were double digit.

According to our stance that last year-end selloff had gone too far we maintained all the exposure throughout winter benefitting from the widespread market recovery, than we started trimming the equity exposure reaching, at the end of July the lowest exposure.

As the markets proved no will to correct and monetary authorities enforced their easing bias, late summer we stepped back in the equity market and grabbed some more gain driven by multiple expansion.

We exploited sector rotation in equity and emerging local currency debt in bonds to look for pockets of value in quite expensive markets.

2020 forecast

While global surveys of manufacturing sentiment have turned positive, growth in industrial activity is still close to zero. We expect global GDP growth of 2.9% in 2020 after 3% in 2019.

As December's mini trade deal pans out, sluggish forward indicators and the possibility that US capex spending remains weak in 2020 suggest a turning point for the US economy is still some way off

We expect German GDP growth of around 0.7% in 2020 and we see Chinese GDP growth to decline slightly to 5.9%

Brexit, US election, fastering trade disputes and social unrest around the globe all remain important issues; to these must now be added the risk of a sharp escalation in geopolitical tensions in the Middle East.

Investors risk tolerance was put to the test early in the new year; the killing of General Suleimani by the US Government raised fears that Iran's reaction would lead to escalating violence in the region with negative implication for oil prices and global growth. Investor rushed to buy stocks on the quick correction, sending market indexes to new all-time highs alongside declining volatility. This is a sign that the level of optimism reached at the end of 2019 remained strong and that the faith in Central Banks has no limits.

2020 is set to be an eventful year; investor's faith will be challenged by the quite significant slowdown in the US economy we expect; behind our cautious 2020 growth forecast for the DM is the belief that business sentiment and investments are unlikely to react quickly to the fragile phase 1 trade deal between USA and China and that November election will add to uncertainty US Dollar strength could well come to an end

As formally requested by former head of BCE, fiscal policy, in particular in Europe, will be a corner stone of asset allocation and we could see fiscal stimulus kick in as monetary policy fades

Due to the even lower pace of economic expansion worldwide, rich valuations both in equity and credit we will slightly increase our exposure to the emerging markets bonds both in hard and local currency as a way to access interesting yields ant to hedge the expected weakness in the USD.

We will favor a more opportunistic approach implementing more tactical trades to lock-in some profits during the year and to enter the hottest months of the American electoral year with a very prudent portfolio

A certain exposure to USD bonds will be kept as a hedge and for the interesting coupons as

We see opportunities coming from a new wave of stimulus in China and we will lift our equity exposure accordingly.

2019 Review

After a sharp fall in December 2018, the market was in a grim mood at the start of this year. Risk assets were helped to no small degree by the change in Federal Reserve policy, which early in the year intimated that it was putting further rate rises on hold and was considering easing policy instead.

The first of three cuts came in July, with the European Central Bank likewise easing policy during the year and this path has been followed by other Central Banks worldwide. This context of more expansive monetary policies with the end of quantitative tightening led to a structural volatility decrease on both the bond and the equity markets.

After the summer, the positive evolution of the trade war between US and China was another important supporting factor for the investors' risk appetite.

The trade war took its toll on global growth and this effect was more visible in the in the first half of the year. Trade tensions have contributed to the longest deterioration in corporate sentiment on record. Later in the year, the hopes of a US-China trade truce led to a rebound between August and November, putting an end to six months of contraction.

Finally, the low bond yields helped justify valuations that remained constantly high through the year.

Besides equity, 2019 was a highly successful year also for fixed-income investors: the hunt for yield helped boost previously beaten-down areas of the European sovereign market, namely Italy and Greece. Among the Emerging countries, the problems in Turkey and Argentina remained isolated.

2019 Investment Activities

In 2019, the sub-fund posted a 12.62% return.

The asset allocation during the year has been relatively stable, with an increase to Alternatives in December 2019 in anticipation of new inflows in the sub-fund planned for January 2020.

The allocation to risky assets throughout the year allowed a good participation to the strong market performance.

The asset allocation at year-end was ca -3% cash, 39% fixed income, 42% equities, 22% alternatives

In fixed income, a credit Barbell approach was implemented with exposure to Government bonds on one side, and Emerging Markets and High Yield on the other. The duration of the portfolio was increased at the end of the year, and the exposure to hard currency emerging markets bonds. All these segments did well, given the market circumstances.

PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF - NETTUNO

On the equity side, the vast majority of the exposure was to developed markets, large cap in particular. Style-wise, we privileged "quality growth equities". In the last quarter, however, the cyclical component of the portfolio was increased, with global small cap stocks and European cyclicals (via funds and ETFs), and we took some profit on other sections of the equity portfolio (large cap tech, quality).

The Alternatives allocation continued to be implemented with low volatility equity long/short strategies.

2020 outlook and positioning

We are late in the economic cycle, but we are not convinced that recession is imminent.

We expect global growth to slow again in 2020, from 3.0% this year to 2.9%, with advanced economies slowing from 1.7% to 1.0%. We see euro area growth slipping from 1.2% this year to 1.0% in 2020 and UK growth could decline from 1.1% to 0.7%.

We expect Chinese growth to slow from 6.2% in 2019 to 5.9% and Japanese growth from 0.8% to 0.3% due to external demand issues. We expect the Indian economy to rebound in H2 2020, with 5.7% growth for fiscal year 2020.

Vital to avoiding a downturn will be continued policy support. With the effectiveness of monetary policy diminishing, fiscal measures will play a more important role in keeping economies on an even keel. After a strong 2019 (despite almost no earnings growth) valuations for S&P 500 equities have reached a 17.8x 12-month forward earnings. With sovereign yields set to stay low, we expect equity valuations to remain elevated in 2020.

With markets looking relatively expensive and few visible upside drivers, low rates and the lack of alternatives will provide some support.

Forward indicators show that the US is slowing: the extent to which manufacturing spills over into consumer confidence and spending will be crucial to watch. A possible near-term source of volatility in US equities will be the clear emergence of a Democratic candidate for the November presidential election.

We have a constructive stance on countries adopting fiscal expansion measures like France as well as India and China. We therefore favor quality cyclical stocks as well as structural growth stocks that can grow independently of the market cycle. Given subdued earnings growth and bond yields, we like dividend-growing companies as well as companies with pricing power.

We plan a more systematic tactical use of derivatives (typically options on equity index futures on the American and European markets) for hedging purposes.

All in all, 2019 was a very strong year in term of equity performance. We don't expect 2020 to be so good. Nevertheless, there is still a significative potential for the market to record positive performance. For the moment we keep our stance near the neutral point.

Global overview 2019

The main theme for financial markets in 2019 was trade, with the U.S. as the main actor who wanted to completely change the way it conducts its foreign trade. As such, the trade war continued in diverse fronts:

- US-European Union, with the US assessing if the EU auto industry poses a national security risk and the EU threatening to impose new taxes on US tech companies, while on the other hand trying to negotiate a new trade-agreement.
- US-China, with the US imposing higher taxes on a broader sample of Chinese exports and China vowing to retaliate, as trade negotiations took place. It is important to note that all asset-classes were correlated to the evolution of this agreement as they involved two of the largest countries in foreign-trade. In the end, both countries reached an agreement (named "Phase 1") and vowed to start discussions for a broader pact in the future. Real results of this agreement aside, markets rallied as its conclusion meant that both US and China are willing to have open trade.
- US vs World Trade Organization, with the US ceasing to pay its contributions which had a negative impact on the day-to-day activities o the WTO. At year's-end, the future of WTO is unknown, with many expecting it to completely cease activities. This would impact international trade neutral arbitration.
- Although the negotiations for a new United States-Mexico-and-Canada trade agreement concluded in 2018, it took almost all year-long to have it approved by the US Congress.

In Europe, Brexit was also important for most of 2019 as the UK reached a political stalemate that ended up with Theresa May's resignation, Boris Johnson election as Prime Minister and a general election which rearranged the composition of the Parliament that enabled UK to approve an exit deal with the EU. Despite the global trade tensions, the USA continued its good economic performance as consumers kept spending and inflation was in-check. The FED contributed to this expansion by lowering the Fed-funds rate three times, totalling 75 basis points. Thus, main developed equity markets rallied, and successive historic highs were reached.

Although global recession was avoided as Central Banks reduced interest rates, risks persist for 2020. The main ones are related to the sustainability of the US economic expansion and the prospect - or lack of - growth in Europe and Emerging Markets.

Adding to that, we think that financial markets are fairly priced which could lead to episodes of high volatility in 2020 if discounted expectations are not met or if an unforeseeable scenario arises (such as the new Coronavirus emergency).

Market review

December capped off a highly successful year for risky and safe assets alike, with the MSCI World Index rising about 27.5% (in US dollars). After a sharp fall in December 2018, when US equities lost about 6%, the market was in a grim mood at the start of this year. Indeed, most of 2019 was characterised by equity outflows, a move that could readily be justified by virtually non-existent earnings growth over the 12-month period. And yet investors willing to endure the heat and noise generated by trade tensions and a noticeably drop in economic momentum (although later in the US than elsewhere) were amply rewarded. Risk assets were helped to no small degree by the U-turn in Federal Reserve policy, which early in the year intimated that it was putting further rate rises on hold and was considering easing policy instead. The first of three cuts came in July, with the European Central Bank likewise easing policy during the year. Buoyant M&A and robust buy-backs (particularly in the US) likewise contributed to boost equities.

Another major factor was low bond yields, which flattered equities and helped justify valuations that remained constantly high. Bond yields slid for much of the year, with the volume of negative-yielding debt reaching a peak of USD17 trn in mid-August. However, negative yielding debt started to melt in the late-summer sun as investors began to question the gloomiest prognostics for economic growth and negative interest rates reached their limit. Nevertheless, 2019 was a highly successful year for fixed-income investors, helped not least by a fall of about 75 bps in the US 10-year Treasury yield. The hunt for yield helped boost previously beatendown areas of the European sovereign market, such as Italian and even Greek debt. In spite of a rising default rate in US high yield, credit markets put in a robust performance in 2019. Investors in EM debt also made good returns, with problems in countries like Turkey and Argentina remaining isolated.

The PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF - FLEXIBLE CONSERVATIVE PORTFOLIO had a strong year 2019, up 11.6% (based on C share class). The allocation by year-end was as follows: 63% fixed income, 23% equities, 10% cash and 4% gold.

The sub-fund entered the year with a rather elevated allocation to equities, reflecting the willingness to benefit from a rebound in risky assets after the strong sell-off witnessed in the last quarter of the previous year. The risk level was gradually reduced until summer as equity markets performed strongly. The first reduction came over March; first, the sub-fund actually increased the allocation to Asia early in the month in anticipation of a possible trade war appeasement and an expected acceleration of economic activity in China into summer and added a 1% position in Rio Tinto. Simultaneously, the sub-fund bought a put option on European equities to protect from downside that could emerge from the ongoing weakness in industrial activity. Second, later in the month, the US market exposure was reduced and the Artisan Value Fund entirely sold after a good run. In May, several changes were made to the allocation to protect against downside risks as trade worries intensified again. US equities were reduced by 2.5%, and the entire Japanese equity position, currency-hedged, was sold on May 17. Little movements occurred over summer and early fall. In November, the sub-fund bought a call option on the UK market as a hard Brexit seemed less likely and fiscal spending in 2020 might support the British economy. On top of this, some additions to core equity holdings were made. Finally, the sub-fund bought a position in the global security theme late in December, adding mainly to healthcare.

PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF - FLEXIBLE CONSERVATIVE PORTFOLIO

Within fixed income, the sub-fund reinvested 7% of cash into higher-yielding securities in January and kept the portfolio little changed for the coming months. The sub-fund was more active again in the second half of the year. In June, the sub-fund increased the exposure to Investment Grade credit and EM debt as a potential rebound in credit markets shaped up. Over July and August, profits were taken on higher-yielding names and proceeds reinvested into US treasuries. A 2.5% position in Ashmore EM Corporate short-term was added in November after the sub-fund got hit on several debtors. The sub-fund manager has a strong track-record in recovering principal after a crisis, which implies an attractive risk/reward profile for this sub-fund to come. The sub-fund reduced a bit the duration in December by selling part of the very long-dated US treasuries.

Diversifying assets were added or increased throughout the year. Most importantly, the sub-fund bought Japanese Yen cash end of May as this currency was at this stage the asset with the highest diversification benefits against the overall portfolio. Also, gold was increased early October from 2% to 4%.

Outlook

Markets are on the front foot as we enter the new year. There is certainly room for some optimism, at least of the cautious variety. US-China relations are showing signs of thawing, while holiday sales and good job numbers point to US consumer spending remaining healthy. In Europe, a measure of clarity surrounding the road to Brexit was provided by the UK general election in December, while hopeful signs have started to emerge that the slowdown may be bottoming out in Germany. Growth in Japan is likely to be boosted by fresh fiscal stimulus announced in December, with the Chinese authorities also pushing (carefully) on the policy levers to ensure that China glides down to a sustainable, more comfortable long-term growth path.

Yet, while equities could benefit from the 'fear of missing out" which was leading to a revival in equity inflows toward the end of 2019, it is becoming increasingly hard to justify elevated equity valuations, especially as earnings growth could remain anaemic in 2020, leaving only dividends and buybacks to drive shareholder returns. Importantly, it is unusual to see bonds and equities to supply positive returns in unison, as they did in 2019. Further improvements in the economic picture could lead to a continuation of the recent rise in bond yields and drop in prices. Alternatively, risk assets could falter again, especially as international tensions remain and the world economy is by no means out of the woods. All in all, investors probably cannot count on the low volatility of the latest months in 2019. At this stage, it is difficult to see a repeat of the double-digit returns registered by a whole range of assets last year.

At the time this management report was established, consequences of the COVID-19 (coronavirus or SARS-CoV-2) outbreak were unknown. Please refer to Note 19.

Investors in EM debt also made double-digit returns, with problems in countries like Turkey and Argentina remaining isolated.

Performance review

Over 2019 the portfolio had a performance of 7.32%. As of the end of the year, the allocation was split between 16.2% of cash, 52.9% in bonds, 12.39% in equities, 3% in Real Estate (REITS fund) and finally 15.0% in Hedge funds.

The contribution of equities was +3.43%, in the wake of a very strong year for equity markets as the fear of a recession in USA (built in the last quarter of 2018) progressively decreased (helped by a U-turn in monetary policy in the US and elsewhere) and fuelled the rally. During the first quarter, we sold the put options on S&P 500 and Eurostoxx 50 (that we bought nicely in the middle of November before the correction) in the beginning of January as the markets started the rebound from their low observed at the end of December. Following the strong rebound, we started to reduce slightly the risk of the portfolio by selling some equities (Ishares Stoxx Europe 600, Pictet USA index) and buying REITS (2%). We rebalanced the equity bucket toward global equity funds during this process (bought Cantillon global and Pictet global thematic). In March, we continued to de-risk the portfolio by selling US equities and increasing the PWM global REITS. In the second quarter we took again some profits in the equity bucket by reducing our allocation to Japan (Pictet Japan index) and USA (Pictet USA index). In the third quarter we bought the Long vol certificate in order to be able to deploy some cash in puts option in case of a market correction.

Hedge Funds had a contribution of +0.89%, mainly because of Mosaic (multi-strategy) and World equity Hedge (L/S equity strategy), whereas the REITS fund added 0.18%.

Fixed income investments contributed for +3.38% with bonds representing roughly half of the mandate. Bonds consisted mainly in sovereign (23%) and corporates (16%). The fixed income part edged up throughout 2019 from 50.7% to 52.9%. In the first quarter, we reduced the allocation to US government bonds in favour of a global sovereign exposure, via the purchase of the SSGA-Global Treasury Bonds Fund (10%). In September, we switched the all maturities share class for the 1-10y position (SSGA-Global Treasury 1-10 Bond Index Fund). The other main investment decision was the introduction of Lazard Emerging Local Currency Debt as the House view became bullish on the sub-asset class. The rationale was the Fed's dovish U-turn that was deemed as positive for Emerging Markets in general, and in particular for Emerging local debts.

The best contributor was SSGA-Global Treasury Bonds Index Fund (+0.75%), however, the SSGA-Global Treasury 1-10y Bond Index Fund was the worst contributor (-0.10%). At the end of the year, the weighted modified duration of the mandate stood at 2.3 years.

Looking forward

Markets are on the front foot as we enter the new year. There is certainly room for optimism, at least of the cautious variety. US-China relations are showing signs of thawing, while holiday sales and good job numbers point to US consumer spending remaining healthy. In Europe, a measure of clarity surrounding the road to Brexit was provided by the UK general election in December, while hopeful signs have started to emerge that the slowdown may be bottoming out in Germany. Growth in Japan is likely to be boosted by fresh fiscal stimulus announced in December, with the Chinese authorities also pushing (carefully) on the policy levers to ensure that China glides down to a sustainable, more comfortable long-term growth path. Going into 2020, emerging markets are benefiting from signs of a rebound in commodities, led by a rebound in oil, as well as by a lowering of trade tensions, which could lessen the attractiveness of the US dollar. Not only did the final weeks of 2019 see a turnaround in the fortunes of energy stocks, but banks in the US and Europe have also started to reflect a steepening of yield curves, the growing resistance to further rate cuts and consistent central bank support for a sector that generally remains on the mend. Yet, while equities could benefit from the "fear of missing out" which was leading to a revival in equity inflows toward the end of 2019, the recent rise in bond yields means it is becoming harder to justify elevated equity valuations, especially as earnings growth could remain anaemic in 2020, leaving dividends and buybacks to drive shareholder returns. Importantly, it is unusual to see bonds and equities to supply positive returns in unison, as they did in 2019. Further improvements in the economic picture could lead to a continuation of the recent rise in bond yields and drop in prices. Alternatively, risk assets could falter again, especially as international tensions remain and the world economy is by no means out of the woods. All in all, investors probably cannot count on the low volatility of recent months holding throughout 2020. At this stage, it is difficult to see a repeat of the double-digit returns registered by a whole range of assets last year.

At the time this management report was established, consequences of the COVID-19 (coronavirus or SARS-CoV-2) outbreak were unknown. Please refer to Note 19.

Management report

Previous year's market review

Investors willing to endure the heat and noise generated by trade tensions and a noticeably drop in economic momentum (although later in the US than elsewhere) were amply rewarded. Risk assets were helped to no small degree by the U-turn in Federal Reserve policy, which early in the year intimated that it was putting further rate rises on hold and was considering easing policy instead. The first of three cuts came in July, with the European Central Bank likewise easing policy during the year. Buoyant M&A and robust buy-backs (particularly in the US) likewise contributed to boost equities.

Another major factor was low bond yields, which flattered equities and helped justify valuations that remained constantly high. Bond yields slid for much of the year, with the volume of negative-yielding debt reaching a peak of USD 17 trn in mid-August. However, negative yielding debt started to melt in the late-summer sun as investors began to question the gloomiest prognostics for economic growth and negative interest rates reached their limit. Nevertheless, 2019 was a highly successful year for fixed-income investors, helped not least by a fall of about 75 bps in the US 10-year Treasury yield. The hunt for yield helped boost previously beatendown areas of the European sovereign market, such as Italian and even Greek debt. In spite of a rising default rate in US high yield, credit markets put in a robust performance in 2019. Investors in EM debt also made double-digit returns, with problems in countries like Turkey and Argentina remaining isolated.

While low volatility continued to be an issue for hedge funds intent on producing alpha and the strong returns produced by 'traditional' assets meant the spotlight turned away somewhat from alternatives, 2019 was nevertheless a good year for alternatives. Low yields and outflows from equity funds during most of the year benefited investments in real assets. In addition, corporate events like M&A proved a boon for at least some hedge-fund strategies.

Performance review

The asset allocation has remained fairly stable over the year with only some slight tactical adjustments between fixed income and equities. Approximatively half of the sub-fund's assets is invested in equities, one third in fixed income, and the rest in hedge funds, REITs and cash.

In February, exposure to equities was slightly reduced in order to take some profits. The proceeds of the reduction in equities were reinvested in Global treasuries and credit. Given the lack of improvement in economic data, it was decided in March, to increase the allocation to global government bonds and to buy put options to protect against a short term market correction. Similarly and on the back of rising trade tensions, it was decided in May to further reduce equities through futures. After the correction in August, a listed infrastructure fund was introduced to re-increase the equity exposure while keeping a defensive profile. In September and after the sharp decline in yields, the portfolio duration risk was reduced, by switching part of the long-term government bonds into shorter ones. During the last quarter, and amid improving market sentiment, it was decided to increase the allocation to equities with a tilt towards the euro area which is more cyclical and value.

PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF - KARINA

The sub-fund generated a net return of +14.1% in 2019, fuelled by the outstanding performance of the equity bucket. The asset class had a stellar year, thanks to accommodative central banks and as trade tensions and fears of a global recession have eased over the last months of the year. Most other asset classes also contributed positively: the decline in bond yields have provided support to fixed income and REITs while Hedge Funds benefited from the risk-on environment with most underlying strategies ending the year in positive territory.

Current year's outlook for financial markets

Markets are on the front foot as we enter the new year. There is certainly room for optimism, at least of the cautious variety. US-China relations are showing signs of thawing, while holiday sales and good job numbers point to US consumer spending remaining healthy. In Europe, a measure of clarity surrounding the road to Brexit was provided by the UK general election in December, while hopeful signs have started to emerge that the slowdown may be bottoming out in Germany. All in all, investors probably cannot count on the low volatility of recent months holding throughout 2020. By contrast, the prospect of much lower returns from equities and bonds in 2020 should ensure alternatives retain their interest for long-term investors willing to accept the illiquidity premium that comes attached, especially as alternative investments extend their reach into Asia and elsewhere.

PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF - GLOBAL CORE VALUE

Management report

2019 review

After a sharp fall in December 2018, when the S&P 500 lost about 6%, the market was in a grim mood at the start of this year. Indeed, most of 2019 was characterized by equity outflows, a move that could readily be justified by virtually non-existent earnings growth over the 12-month period. And yet investors willing to endure the heat and noise generated by trade tensions and a noticeably drop in economic momentum (although later in the US than elsewhere) were amply rewarded. Risk assets were helped to no small degree by the U-turn in Federal Reserve policy, which early in the year intimated that it was putting further rate rises on hold and was considering easing policy instead. The first of three cuts came in July, with the European Central Bank likewise easing policy during the year. Buoyant M&A and robust buy-backs (particularly in the US) likewise contributed to boost equities.

In spite of a rising default rate in US high yield, credit markets put in a robust performance in 2019. Investors in EM debt also made double-digit returns, with problems in countries like Turkey and Argentina remaining isolated.

In 2019 the sub-fund total performance was up 12.28% (USD). All asset classes contributed positively except hedge funds. Bonds and equities were the main contributors to performance with a respective performance of 5.9% (contribution of 1.79%) and 29.5% (contribution of 8.94%.)

Over the year, the fixed income allocation decreased from 31.2% to 23.9%. Some bonds reached their maturity and some other were called. We also took some profit on bonds that have performed extremely well. Indeed, some bonds had an absolute performance of more than 10%, mainly the high yield segment. We also added a distressed debt allocation to take advantage of specific situations where we have forced sellers.

On the equity side, we increased the equity exposure from 27.5% to 37.1% of the portfolio. We continued to add some high dividend names to generate revenues, mainly in the financial, real estate and energy sector. The sub-fund has generated overall a net yield of 2.62%. The main drivers of the portfolio were growth-oriented stocks such as Apple, Celgene, Microsoft, Facebook, Edwards Lifescience but also several value-oriented stocks such Carlyle, Apollo Investment, Brookfield Renewable Partners, BNP Paribas and Gazprom. The absolute performance of equity allocation was 29.5% vs. the MSCI World Total Return at 27.7%.

We were also active with options. We sold puts on companies to potentially initiate a position and we sold calls on some growth stocks that had performed extremely well. It is also worth pointing out that we bought some protection for the 2nd part of the year in order to hedge the equity exposure. After the strong rebound that we had during the first semester, we were willing to pay some premium to buy this insurance.

Our Alternative Investment allocation increased from 10.9% to 13.3% over the year. The private equity investments have started to call capital. We also added a systematic hedge fund, which offer a return uncorrelated from the market and provides an indirect hedge to the equity exposure of the portfolio.

We plan to continue deploying USD liquidities into high yielding dividend stocks over the next months. The cash in USD remains invested into short-term money market funds with a positive yield.

PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF - FLEXIGLOB (note 1)

Management report

This sub-fund has merged into the structure PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF on October 31, 2019.

December capped off a highly successful year for risky and safe assets alike, with the MSCI AC World Index rising about 3% (in US dollars). The risk-on mood could be seen in even stronger performances for tech and emerging-market indices, as trade tensions and fears of a global recession eased. The final guarter showed a similar pattern.

After a sharp fall in December 2018, when the S&P 500 lost about 6%, the market was in a grim mood at the start of this year. The appreciation in value measured at EUR 67,934,929 amounted to EUR 826,239 from income and EUR 67,108,690 from capital changes. Thanks to the good performance of the various equity-related mandates, the equity quota rose to 84.7% at year-end and the cash quota fell to 15.3%. The currency effect was modest at 1.23%.

The objectives of our audit are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an audit report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with the Law of 23 July 2016 and with ISAs as adopted for Luxembourg by the CSSF will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of these financial statements.

As part of an audit in accordance with the Law of 23 July 2016 and with ISAs as adopted for Luxembourg by the CSSF, we exercise professional judgment and maintain professional scepticism throughout the audit. We also:

- identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks, and obtain audit evidence that is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control;
- obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Fund's internal control;
- evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates and related disclosures made by the Board of Directors of the Fund;
- conclude on the appropriateness of the Board of Directors of the Fund's use of the going concern basis of accounting and, based on the audit evidence obtained, whether a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the Fund's or any of its sub-funds' ability to continue as a going concern. If we conclude that a material uncertainty exists, we are required to draw attention in our audit report to the related disclosures in the financial statements or, if such disclosures are inadequate, to modify our opinion. Our conclusions are based on the audit evidence obtained up to the date of our audit report. However, future events or conditions may cause the Fund or any of its sub-funds (except for PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF PROGRESS GLOBAL INVEST and PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF WORLDWIDE DYNAMIC ALLOCATION where a decision to liquidate exists) to cease to continue as a going concern;
- evaluate the overall presentation, structure and content of the financial statements, including the disclosures, and whether the financial statements represent the underlying transactions and events in a manner that achieves fair presentation.

We communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant audit findings, including any significant deficiencies in internal control that we identify during our audit.

We do not express an opinion on the accompanying financial statements of the sub-funds PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF – DAKAR, PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF – ZERMATT and PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF - GLOBAL DYNAMIC BALANCED PORTFOLIO. Because of the significance of the matter described in the "Basis for Disclaimer of Opinion for the sub-funds PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF – DAKAR, PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF – ZERMATT and PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF - GLOBAL DYNAMIC BALANCED PORTFOLIO" section of our report, we have not been able to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a basis for an audit opinion on these financial statements.

We were engaged to audit the financial statements of the sub-funds PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF – DAKAR, PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF – ZERMATT and PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF - GLOBAL DYNAMIC BALANCED PORTFOLIO of PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF (the "Fund") which comprise:

Basis for Disclaimer of Opinion for the sub-funds PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF – DAKAR, PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF – ZERMATT and PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF - GLOBAL DYNAMIC BALANCED PORTFOLIO

The sub-funds PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF – DAKAR, PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF – ZERMATT and PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF - GLOBAL DYNAMIC BALANCED PORTFOLIO are investing in several sub-funds of the investment fund "NS Fund", representing 100% of their investments as at 31 December 2019. We have not been provided with the audited financial statements of "NS Fund" as 31 December 2019. Therefore, we have not been able to obtain sufficient and appropriate audit evidence on the valuation of "NS Fund" as at 31 December 2019 and to assess if any related value adjustment should have been recorded in the statement of operations and changes in net assets for the year then ended.

Responsibilities of the Board of Directors of the Fund for the financial statements

The Board of Directors of the Fund is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in accordance with Luxembourg legal and regulatory requirements relating to the preparation and presentation of the financial statements, and for such internal control as the Board of Directors of the Fund determines is necessary to enable the preparation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the financial statements, the Board of Directors of the Fund is responsible for assessing the Fund's and each of its sub-funds' ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing, as applicable, matters related to going concern and using the going concern basis of accounting unless the Board of Directors of the Fund either intends to liquidate the Fund or close any of its sub-funds or to cease operations, or has no realistic alternative but to do so.

Responsibilities of the "Réviseur d'entreprises agréé" for the audit of the financial statements of the sub-funds PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF – DAKAR, PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF – ZERMATT and PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF – GLOBAL DYNAMIC BALANCED PORTFOLIO

However, because of the matter described in the "Basis for Disclaimer of Opinion for the sub-funds PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF – DAKAR, PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF – GLOBAL DYNAMIC BALANCED PORTFOLIO" section of our report, we were not able to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence to provide a basis for an audit opinion on the financial statements of the sub-funds PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF – DAKAR, PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF – GLOBAL DYNAMIC BALANCED PORTFOLIO.

We are independent of the Fund in accordance with the International Ethics Standards Board for Accountants' Code of Ethics for Professional Accountants ("IESBA Code") as adopted for Luxembourg by the CSSF together with the ethical requirements that are relevant for conducting our audit of the financial statements, and have fulfilled our other ethical responsibilities under these ethical requirements.

NOTE 2 SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

a) General

The financial statements are prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and presented in accordance with the legal reporting requirements applicable in Luxembourg relating to undertakings for collective investment under going concern basis of accounting except for the sub-funds PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF - PROGRESS GLOBAL INVEST and PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF - WORLDWIDE DYNAMIC ALLOCATION that were liquidated as indicated in note 19. As such, the financial statements for these sub-funds have been prepared on a non-going concern basis.

The application of the non-going concern basis has not lead to material adjustments to the sub-funds' published net asset values.

b) Presentation of financial statements

The reference currency of the Company is the EUR. The accounts of the sub-funds are kept in the currency of each sub-fund. The combined statement of net assets and the combined statement of operations and changes in net assets are the sum of the statements of net assets, the statement of operations and changes in net assets of each sub-fund converted with the exchange rate prevailing at year-end.

The accounting year of the Company terminates on December 31 of each year.

c) Combined financial statements

The combined financial statements of the Company are expressed in EUR and are equal to the sum of the corresponding items in the financial statements of the different sub-funds, converted into EUR at the exchange rate prevailing at the end of the year.

d) Valuation of investment securities

- 1) The value of the liquid asset, bills or notes payable on demand and accounts receivable, prepaid expenditures, dividends and interest announced or come to maturity not yet affected, are constituted by the nominal value of these assets, except if it turns out however unlikely that this value could be affected and in the latter case, the value is determined by subtracting a certain amount that the Company deems appropriate to reflect the real value of these assets.
- 2) The value of securities that are listed or traded on a stock exchange are determined following their last-known price.
- 3) The value of securities that are traded on a regulated market are determined in a manner as close as possible to that contained in the preceding paragraph.
- 4) The securities not listed or traded on a regulated market, or the securities for which on a valuation day, no price is available or if the price determined in accordance with paragraphs (2) or (3) does not represent the real value, these securities are evaluated on the basis of the probable foreseeable sales prices determined prudently and in good faith.
- 5) The units and/or shares of undertaking for collective investments and any private equity fund, are evaluated on the basis of latest known net asset value ("NAV"). If appropriate, the valuation of the private equity fund interests is determined by adjusting the most up to date capital account value with the capital calls paid and the distribution received from the private equity fund between the date of the capital account value and the valuation.
- 6) The value of private equity firms is determined on the basis of the latest annual audited or unaudited financial statements, or Capital Account Statements available. The value may be adjusted with capital calls and distribution if any. Upon decision of the board of directors, the value of private equity firms is estimated by independent accounting firm of first rank appointed by the Board of Directors of the Company.
- 7) For each sub-fund, securities whose value is expressed in a currency other than the currency of the sub-fund in question is converted to the relevant currency based on the average price between the last available bid / ask price in Luxembourg or, failing that, on the market that is most representative for these securities.

- 8) Payments made and received by the sub-fund under swap contracts are updated on the valuation date at the zero-coupon swap rate corresponding to the maturity of these payments. The value of the swaps is then equal to the difference between the two updates.
- 9) The value of options contracts traded on a stock exchange or another regulated market shall be based on the closing price or settlement price published by the stock exchange or by the other regulated market that as a general rule serves as the principal trading place for these contracts. Options contracts not traded on a stock exchange or another regulated market are valued at their liquidation value determined in accordance with the rules established in good faith by the Board of Directors, in keeping with uniform criteria set out for each type of contract.

The Board of Directors is authorised to adopt any other appropriate principles for valuing the sub-fund's assets if extraordinary circumstances make it impossible or inappropriate to calculate the values based on the aforementioned criteria.

10) For Private Equity direct investments, several valuation methodologies can be used accordingly to the documentation received: Market Approach (Price of Recent Investment, Multiples, Industry Valuation Benchmarks, Available Market Prices); Income Approach (Discounted Cash Flows) or Replacement Cost Approach (Net Assets). The valuer should exercise his judgment to select the valuation methodology that is the most appropriate for a particular investment.

e) Net realised gain/loss on sales of investments

The net realised gain/loss on sales of investments is calculated on the basis of the weighted average cost of the investments sold.

f) Cost of investment securities

The cost of investment securities in currencies other than the currency of the Company is translated into the currency of the sub-fund at the exchange rate applicable at purchase date.

g) Valuation of forward foreign exchange contracts

The unrealised gains or losses resulting from outstanding forward foreign exchange contracts, if any, are determined on the basis of the forward foreign exchange contracts rates applicable at the end of the year and are recorded in the statement of net assets.

h) Valuation of futures contracts

Open futures contracts are valued at the last settlement or close price on the stock exchanges or regulated markets.

i) Accounting of futures contracts

Unrealised gains or losses of open futures contracts are disclosed in the statements of net assets. Change in net unrealised appreciation/depreciation on futures contracts, and net realised gains or losses on futures contracts are disclosed in the statement of operations and changes in net assets. Unrealised gains and/or losses already settled through the receipt/payment of a cash amount are kept as change in net unrealised appreciation/depreciation on futures contracts in the statement of operations and other changes in net assets until the termination of the futures contract.

j) Investment income

k) Transaction fees

For the year ended December 31, 2019, the Company incurred transaction fees which have been defined as Bank Commissions, Brokerage fees, Depositary fees and Foreign Tax relating to purchase or sale of transferable securities, money market instruments, derivatives or other eligible assets.

I) Formation expenses

Formation expenses are amortised on a straight line basis over a period of 5 years.

m) Payable and receivable

In relation to transactions related both to capital activity (subscriptions and redemptions) and for the purchase or sale of securities on markets where delivery of securities is made against payment of cash, the Depositary may, in its absolute discretion, provide actual settlement. The Depositary reserves the right to reverse at any time any transaction if the relevant transaction has not been settled or if it appears that such transaction will not be settled. The transactions are booked in accounting based on an automated feed from the depositary system. Consequently no payable or receivable are booked on these transactions.

n) Reconciliation of the published NAV and the NAV disclosed in the financial statements

The financial statements are presented on the basis of the latest net asset value calculated during the financial year, except for the sub-funds PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF - GLOBAL CORE VALUE and PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF - MULTIPLE EQUITY for which an adjustment of the net asset value has been made in the financial statements.

In fact, in accordance with the prospectus, the net assets values were calculated using the latest known net asset value of the underlying private equity funds. This principle has been applied uniformly and consistently for all the concerned sub-funds. Nevertheless in the net asset value of the Sub-fund PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF - GLOBAL CORE VALUE and PRIVATE WEALTH MANAGEMENT GLOBAL SIF - MULTIPLE EQUITY, the prices used for the underlying private equity funds were significantly different from the final prices as at December 31, 2019, representing an increase of the net asset value of 1.49% and 2.05% respectively. Therefore in order to reflect the fair value of the investments, the net asset value has been adjusted only in the financial statements.

The financial year of the AIFM ends on 31 December of each year.

The table below shows the total amount of the remuneration for the financial year ended as at December 31, 2019, split into fixed and variable remuneration, paid by the AIFM to its staff.

The table has been prepared taking into consideration point 162 of section 14.1 of the ESMA remuneration guidelines relating to the confidentiality and data protection in presenting the remuneration information.

| | Number of beneficiaries | Total remuneration (EUR) | Fixed remuneration (EUR) | Variable remuneration (target or discretionary bonuses, parts remuneration) (EUR) |

| Total remuneration paid by the AIFM during 2019 | 21 | 475,739 | 347,924 | 127,815 |

Additional explanation:

- The beneficiaries reported are composed of the risk takers (including the 4 Conducting Officers) and the staff of the AIFM dedicated to AIFM activities for all the Funds under management, remunerated by the AIFM. In addition, the AIFM did not remunerate directly the staff of the Investment Manager, but rather ensured that the Investment Manager complies with the Remuneration Policy requirements itself.
- The benefits have been attributed according to criteria such as level of seniority, hierarchic level, or other eligibility criteria, not taking into account performance criteria, and are thus excluded from the fixed or variable remuneration figures provided above.
- Total fixed and variable remuneration disclosed is based on apportionment of Asset Under Management represented by the Company.
- The 2019 annual review outcome showed no exception.
- There have been no changes to the adopted remuneration policy since its implementation.
