Please be aware that under Swiss law, Actively Managed Certificates (AMCs) are classified as derivative financial instruments (debt instruments). They should not be mistaken for or compared to investment funds. Any language on this website that is commonly associated with investment funds does not imply that AMCs are investment funds or similar to them. AMCs are not considered collective investment schemes as per the Swiss Federal Act on Collective Investment Schemes (CISA), and thus are neither regulated by CISA nor overseen by the Swiss Financial Market Supervisory Authority (FINMA). Consequently, investors in AMCs do not benefit from the specific protections offered under CISA.

Please note that the domicile of the issuer of the AMC is Guernsey. Swiss Fund Data did not allow this entry; therefore Switzerland is shown as a placeholder. Further details are available in the termsheet.

DISCLAIMER

This document of Stableton Financial AG (hereinafter "Stableton") is for information purposes only and for the sole use of the intended recipient. The document contains selected information, is not exhaustive and outlines only certain features of the product referred. It is based on publicly available information and data ("information") that are believed to be accurate, reliable and complete. Stableton has not verified the accuracy and completeness of the information presented and cannot guarantee this. Every reasonable step has been taken to ensure that the information contained herein is up-to-date and as accurate as possible. However, no warranty whatsoever – express, statutory or implied – that could arise out of the utilization of this documents, parts of it or results from it including but not limited to all warranties of merchantability, fitness for a particular purpose or use and to all warranties arising from this kind of business. This document has been prepared without taking account of the objectives, financial situation or needs of any particular investor.

The contained information is of a tentative nature and may be changed or supplemented at any time. Neither the document as a whole nor any of the information, assumptions, opinions and forecasts contained therein should therefore serve as a basis for any legal, fiscal, financial or other decisions of any kind. Stableton advises each interested party to seek independent advice from a qualified specialist prior to making any investment decisions.

This document has not been reviewed or approved by any regulatory authority. Actively Managed Certificates (AMCs) are complex financial products which involve a high degree of risk. They are intended exclusively for investors who have the knowledge and experience necessary to understand all risks and merits involved. AMCs are not comparable with conventional debts or equity securities and will not be covered by any financial compensation or insurance scheme. In particular, the AMC does not constitute a participation in a collective investment scheme. It constitutes a direct, unconditional, unsecured and unsubordinated obligation of the issuer. The product's value is not only dependent on the development of the underlying(s), but also on the credit-worthiness of the issuer. As AMCs may be denominated in another currency than the one of the investor's home member state, fluctuations in exchange rates may adversely affect the market value of the product. AMCs were not registered with the local regulator and are not publicly distributable outside of Switzerland. Not all the risks and merits associated with an AMC can be disclosed in this document. Therefore, potential investors should consult the entire product documentation related to the specific issuance before making any investment decision. The documentation can be obtained free of charge at <http://disruptiveissuance.com/>.

This document as well as the information contained therein do not constitute an offer, solicitation, invitation or recommendation to buy or sell any securities or related financial instruments (including units in a Fund, AMC, Tracker, etc.) or to execute other financial transactions of any kind and are therefore not to be used or considered as such.

Stableton expressly point to the fact past performance is not an indication or guarantee for future performances; the value of the investments may increase as well as decrease. The conservation of the initial capital may therefore not be guaranteed and investors are subject to the risk of total loss of the amount invested. Stableton does not make any warranty – expressed or implied - regarding any future performance.

The commissions and fees incurred on the purchase or sale of a specific financial product illustrated are not included in the performance shown.

This product is not directly comparable to a public market index product. The product performance and composition may meaningfully deviate from the benchmark index due to limited availability and differences in actual market prices. The investment strategy aims to keep the difference to the benchmark index composition as low as possible by actively sourcing and executing private market transactions.

This document has been prepared with the greatest care, however, no liability can be taken for the accuracy, possible errors and completeness of the information and do not form the basis for any contractual or implied liability on the part of Stableton for direct, indirect or consequential damages. Neither Stableton nor any of its affiliates, or their directors, officers or employees, are liable for the opinions, plans and policies set forth herein or accepts any liability for any loss arising from the use of the information in this document.
