The Funds are actively managed by DJE and, where a benchmark index is indicated, without reference to it. The presented charts and tables concerning performance are based on our own calculations according to the gross performance (BVI) method² and illustrate past development. Past performance is not indicative for future returns. The BVI method takes into account all costs incurred at the fund level (e.g. management fees), the net performance and the issue fee. Additional individual costs may be incurred at the customer level (e.g. custodian fees, commission and other charges). Model calculation (net): an investor wishes to purchase shares for Euro 1,000. With a maximum issue surcharge of 5.00%, he has to spend a one-off amount of Euro 50.00 when making the purchase. In addition, there may be custodian costs that reduce performance. The custodian costs are decided by your bank's price list and service charges

Investment Approach

High-dividend stocks are a source of recurring income, but their importance is often underestimated. In the long term, dividends often make the biggest contribution to stock portfolio performance, as reinvested dividends facilitate the compounding effect. This is why stocks with above-average dividend yields are the focus of the DJE - Dividende & Substanz fund. When selecting high dividend stocks, a stable, increasing dividend payment is more important than the absolute level of the current dividend yield. Historical data shows that high-dividend stocks can be more stable in difficult market phases relative to low-dividend stocks. Hence, dividends can act as a buffer to mitigate temporary capital losses. This is mainly because stable businesses with strong balance sheets and high dividend yields as well as protective entry barriers to their markets and products increase the chance of long-term investment success. The stock selection of the portfolio aims for an above-average dividend yield relative to the broader market; however, the fund may also invest in equities that do not currently pay a dividend.

Important selection criteria

Source: DJE Kapital AG. For illustration purposes only.

Opportunities

- + Participation in the growth opportunities of global equity markets independent of benchmark index specifications.
- + Dividends offer regular income potential in addition to possible share price gains and can thus mitigate possible price losses.
- + Attractive level of global dividend stocks.
- + Experienced fund manager with an approach based on fundamental, monetary and market analysis (FMM) that has proven itself since 1974.

Risks

- Share prices can fluctuate relatively strongly due to market, currency and individual value factors.
- Dividends are a voluntary payment by companies and therefore not guaranteed. They can rise, fall or be cancelled altogether.
- Currency risks due to a high foreign share in the portfolio.
- Previously proven investment approach does not guarantee future investment success.

Monthly Commentary

October was a mixed month on the stock markets. In light of the interest rate turnaround initiated in the USA, US economic data was the focus of the markets. And some of these were positive surprises: the US labor market proved to be robust, with more new jobs created than in August and September and a falling unemployment rate. In addition, the purchasing managers' index for services rose unexpectedly sharply from 51.5 to 54.9 points, which indicates expansion. However, with the improved economic outlook, investors also scaled back their expectations of further rapid key interest rate cuts by the US Federal Reserve. US inflation data reinforced this trend. Although the inflation rate fell to 2.4% in September (previous month: 2.5%), core inflation (excluding food and energy) rose from 3.2% to 3.3% - both figures compared to the previous year. In Europe, the combined purchasing managers' index for services and manufacturing in the eurozone rose marginally, but remained just in contraction territory, which does not bode well for the economy. As expected, the ECB also cut key interest rates in October by 25 basis points to 3.25%, and investors are expecting further interest rate cuts. In addition to economic expectations, geopolitical tensions were also noticeable on the stock markets with the Iran/Israel conflict, and disappointing figures from the major technology stocks led to a noticeable slide in prices towards the end of the month. On the stock markets worldwide, (US) technology/communications service stocks and financial stocks were particularly sought after, while raw materials and healthcare stocks came under pressure. In Europe, however, the technology sector also came under greater pressure. Defensive consumer stocks and real estate stocks also performed disappointingly in Europe (both sectors burdened by higher interest rates). In this market environment, the DJE - Dividende & Substanz rose by 0.59%. Over the course of the month, the fund management increased the weighting of the technology and financial services sectors in particular and reduced the healthcare and insurance sectors in return. The equity ratio thus fell from 98.39% to 95.37%. Liquidity rose accordingly from 1.61% to 4.63%.
