The Funds are actively managed by DJE and, where a benchmark index is indicated, without reference to it. The presented charts and tables concerning performance are based on our own calculations according to the gross performance (BVI) method<sup>2</sup> and illustrate past development. Past performance is not indicative for future returns. The BVI method takes into account all costs incurred at the fund level (e.g. management fees), the net performance and the issue fee. Additional individual costs may be incurred at the customer level (e.g. custodian fees, commission and other charges). Model calculation (net): an investor wishes to purchase shares for Euro 1,000. With a maximum issue surcharge of 5.00%, he has to spend a one-off amount of Euro 50.00 when making the purchase. In addition, there may be custodian costs that reduce performance. The custodian costs are decided by your bank's price list and service charges

Investment Approach

High-dividend stocks are a source of recurring income, but their importance is often underestimated. In the long term, dividends often make the biggest contribution to stock portfolio performance, as reinvested dividends facilitate the compounding effect. This is why stocks with above-average dividend yields are the focus of the DJE - Dividende & Substanz fund. When selecting high dividend stocks, a stable, increasing dividend payment is more important than the absolute level of the current dividend yield. Historical data shows that high-dividend stocks can be more stable in difficult market phases relative to low-dividend stocks. Hence, dividends can act as a buffer to mitigate temporary capital losses. This is mainly because stable businesses with strong balance sheets and high dividend yields as well as protective entry barriers to their markets and products increase the chance of long-term investment success. The stock selection of the portfolio aims for an above-average dividend yield relative to the broader market; however, the fund may also invest in equities that do not currently pay a dividend.

Important selection criteria

Source: DJE Kapital AG. For illustration purposes only.

Opportunities

- + Participation in the growth opportunities of global equity markets independent of benchmark index specifications.
- + Dividends offer regular income potential in addition to possible share price gains and can thus mitigate possible price losses.
- + Attractive level of global dividend stocks.
- + Experienced fund manager with an approach based on fundamental, monetary and market analysis (FMM) that has proven itself since 1974.

Risks

- Share prices can fluctuate relatively strongly due to market, currency and individual value factors.
- Dividends are a voluntary payment by companies and therefore not guaranteed. They can rise, fall or be cancelled altogether.
- Currency risks due to a high foreign share in the portfolio.
- Previously proven investment approach does not guarantee future investment success.

Monthly Commentary

The international stock markets fell for the most part in December 2024. The price declines are primarily due to the announcements made by the US Federal Reserve (Fed). As expected, the Fed lowered key interest rates by 25 basis points to a range of 4.25 to 4.50%. What caught the markets on the wrong foot, however, was the announcement of a slower pace in 2025, with only two further interest rate cuts of 25 basis points each by the end of 2025. The vast majority of investors had expected double that, i.e. four interest rate cuts of 25 basis points each for 2025. In the eurozone, the ECB cut key interest rates by 25 basis points as expected, but investors had hoped for a larger move in view of the very subdued economic outlook. In this market environment, DJE - Dividende & Substanz gained 0.15%. The fund benefited above all from the technology and telecommunications sectors. Property stocks moved sideways. By contrast, the majority of sectors performed negatively. The weakest results came from the oil & gas and basic materials sectors, as demand is not high due to the continuing weak economy in China. The healthcare sector also weighed on the fund's performance. The strongest individual stock results came from the semiconductor manufacturers Broadcom (USA) and TSMC (Taiwan) as well as the US technology holding company Alphabet. On the other hand, the Danish pharmaceutical company Novo Nordisk as well as the service company Uber and the insurer United Health (both USA), among others, detracted from the fund's performance. The fund management adjusted the allocation slightly over the course of the month. In particular, the weighting of the technology sector was increased, while the weighting of the healthcare and energy sectors, among others, was reduced. As a result of the adjustment, the investment ratio fell slightly from 97.12% to 96.88%. Liquidity rose accordingly from 2.88% to 3.12%.
