Investment Objective and Investment Policy

The investment objective of the Spectravest fund is to generate long-term capital gains with a portfolio consisting of equity and precious metal investments.

The broad diversification of investments, the long-term nature of investment decisions and the active implementation of the investment strategy offer a systematic wealth management approach.

At least 70% of the fund's assets are invested in Swiss francs at all times.

Characteristics

The fund is suitable for investors who wish to invest in an inexpensive and actively managed growth portfolio and for those interested in equity saving plans and long-term wealth building.

Investment Manager's Comment

The market in August was highly volatile, although this is not reflected in the end-of-month performance. Recession fears in the US persist and it still makes sense to hold a more defensive portfolio. The volatility has led to increased reshuffling in the Spectravest fund. Roche and Novartis have been sold as they reached their fair value. Petrobras has also been removed from the fund due to increasing government interference, which raises concerns about corporate governance.

On the other hand, two new additions to the fund are Evolution, the Swedish market leader in live online casinos with high growth and an attractive valuation, and Fomento Económico Mexicano, a company based in Monterrey that not only handles the bottling of Coca-Cola in Latin America but also has a rapidly growing retail business called Oxxo. The strong balance sheet and valuation of this company have prompted an additional purchase from emerging markets.
