Fund manager's report

Optimism returned to the markets in May, offsetting the sluggish performance of the previous month. In a context of easing geopolitical tensions combined with a drop in long-term rates in the US supported by growth data, new impetus has been restored on the markets, with the technology sector still in the lead. By region, Switzerland was in the lead in Europe, with domestic consumption remaining resilient despite foreign trade weighing on activity. Volatility continued to decline both for bonds and equities. Against this backdrop, the portfolio posted a positive performance in May.
