Fund Portrait

The JSS Sustainable Bond – Global Short-term aims to realise high interest yields while maintaining optimal liquidity. To achieve this, the sub-fund invests globally (including in emerging markets) mainly in debt securities denominated in any currency, though its aim is to optimise the investment success calculated in USD. It will also systematically integrate financially-material ESG aspects throughout the entire investment process, in order to avoid controversial exposures, mitigate ESG risks and harness opportunities. “Emerging markets” are generally defined as the markets of countries that are developing into modern industrial economies and therefore have high growth potential but also increased risk. The maximum capital commitment period (duration) of the fund's assets is three years. The sub-fund can invest in securities with non-investment grade rating and, to a lesser extent, also in ABS (asset backed securities) and CoCos (contingent convertible bonds). The Sub-Fund is actively managed without replicating any benchmark. However, the Sub-Fund will be managed with reference to ICE BofA USD 3M (the “Benchmark”).

Review

The JSS Sustainable Bond - Global Short-term fund returned 0.99% in September, driven to a large extent by US rates and attractive carry. The US Federal Reserve delivered its first rate cut in the current cycle, reducing its policy rate by 50 bps to 4.75%. Emerging market credit spreads across the regions ended the month basically unchanged, despite a slight widening in the first half of the month. High yield slightly outperformed investment grade EM corporate bonds. The primary market was very active in September with new issuances well absorbed by investors. The announcement of a new stimulus package in China had a significant impact on the equity market and supported fund flows towards the end of the month. Monthly flows turned positive for the first time since January 2023.

Outlook

The expected gradual normalisation of the Fed's funds rate and a potential soft landing, creates a favorable backdrop for EM credit performance. We remain optimistic about EM credit, supported by strong market technicals and resilient fundamentals. We expect fund flows to return slowly but steadily to EM credit over the next quarters and in particular during 2025. In the short-term, we are cautious of volatility in both spreads and rates given US and global growth concerns, as well as geopolitical events including the upcoming US presidential election. A key risk remains the current situation in the Middle East which has escalated further over the past weeks. We maintain a positive stance on Eastern Europe and Latin America while remaining cautious on the Middle East and China. End of September, the fund had a yield to worst of 5.0%, a duration of 2.3 years, and an average rating of BBB.
