Fund Portrait

The JSS Sustainable Equity - SaraSelect aims to deliver long-term capital growth. To achieve this, the fund invests primarily in equities of small and mid-cap companies connected to Switzerland or Liechtenstein. Investments are made with a long-term and anti-cyclical perspective. The fund reaches its sustainability characteristics through an engagement approach by individually targeting selected companies to adopt more responsible environmental, social and governance (ESG) practices. The fund avoids investments in the JSS Exclusion list as well as laggards in their respective industry.

Review

The Swiss equity market started the new year with a strong performance, more than making up for the losses of December. The overall market (SPI) rose by 8.20% in the month under review. Small caps rose by 4.14% and mid caps by as much as 6.67%. Large caps achieved a performance of 8.64%. The fund's overweight in global market leaders led to a performance of 6.11%. It thus lagged behind its benchmark index, which gained 6.46%. The following positions were the main contributors to the monthly performance of the SaraSelect portfolio. The largest positive contributions came from Also (77bps), Forbo (41bps), Lem (36bps), Sika (34bps), and Belimo (26bps). The underweighting of Julius Baer (-39bps), Sonova (-38bps), Roche (-33bps), Galderma (-29bps), and Temenos (-27bps) detracted from performance. At the end of the month, President Trump announced that he would increase tariffs on Mexico and Canada by 25% and on China by 10% from the beginning of February. This will lead to increased volatility in the markets. The focus will therefore be on companies' annual financial statements.

Outlook

After a weak December, the stock markets did recover massively in January, this mainly because of the experienced exaggerations of the fourth quarter of 2024. Despite the low risk of a potential upcoming recession and all the existing political and economic uncertainties around Europe, the mid to longer-term outlook for the world economy remains healthy. The central banks globally stopped to fight inflation and are focusing much more on job reports and the macro developments. On a global basis, rates will therefore have to come down further. This environment should eventually be favorable to equity investments again. We think that markets could face some further turbulences, but still represent a buying opportunity especially in the oversold and neglected area of Swiss stocks. As market leaders in their global niches, Swiss companies should see continued higher market shares and rising order volumes again.

Performance was calculated on the basis of net asset values (NAV) and gross dividends reinvested. When calculating performance, all the costs charged to the fund were included to give the net performance. The performance shown does not take account of any commissions and costs charged at the investor level when subscribing and redeeming units. Additional commissions, costs and taxes charged at the investor level have a negative impact on performance. Past performance is not a reliable guide to future performance. The value of your investment may go down as well as up. The return upon the investment will therefore necessarily be variable. Consequently, there is no guarantee that investors will get back the full amount of their invested capital upon redemption. Investments in foreign currencies involve a currency risk, as the return in the investor's currency may be higher or lower due to exchange rate fluctuations. The value of the investor's investment may therefore, as well as for other reasons, increase or decrease. Therefore, there is no guarantee that investors will receive back the full amount of their invested capital upon redemption.
