August 30, 2024

NCM Global Equity Selection is an open-end fund incorporated in Switzerland. The Fund's objective is to achieve long-term capital appreciation measured in US Dollar. The Fund invests mainly in large cap companies globally, including emerging markets. The investment process is a combination of a top-down approach to identify geographical and sectorial opportunities, and a bottom-up stock picking based on our selection models.

Fund Managers view

In August, investors experienced significant market turbulence. Concerns in the US, driven by a lower-than-expected ISM manufacturing index and the weakest jobs report in over three years—raising fears of a potential recession—combined with the Bank of Japan's interest rate hike, which triggered an unwinding of carry trade positions, resulting in a sharp global equity sell-off. However, in the second half of the month, the prospect of lower US interest rates supported a rebound in equity markets, allowing developed market equities to close the month higher.

During this period, the fund posted a 2.20% return, with strong contributions from the information technology, consumer staples, and communication services sectors, while financials were the main detractors.

On the investment front, we strategically deployed cash reserves to increase exposure to cyclical sectors, expanding positions in industrials, materials, energy, and consumer staples through direct investments.
