Ebfinanz Comment June 2024

Market development:

June was the focus of the central banks. The expected interest rate cuts by the ECB and the SNB were implemented, while the Fed is still waiting. The latest US inflation report showed a slight decline, which led to further optimism on the US stock markets. Stagnating retail sales and deteriorating consumer confidence were further indications that the first interest rate cuts could be coming very soon in the US. The US stock markets continued to be driven by the boom in artificial intelligence in June. In Europe, the stock markets performed weakly in June. (EuroStoxx50 -3.5%) The European elections and the early parliamentary elections in France were partly responsible for this. This led to significant nervousness on the European financial markets.

Portfolio performance:

In a turbulent market environment, the Ebfinanz AktienWelt portfolio achieved a positive performance of 0.4% in June. Our tech stocks Samsung (+10.5%), Microsoft (+7.7%) and Alphabet (+5.5%) in particular made a positive contribution to performance in June. We took advantage of the short-term volatility on the French stock exchange to further expand our position in Veolia. Our call option on VAT was exercised in June and has resulted in a slightly higher cash position.

Outlook

Experience shows that volumes on the stock exchanges decline during the upcoming summer holidays. The forthcoming half-yearly reports, lower volumes and poorer consumer sentiment in the USA could lead to increased volatility on the stock markets in July. We continue to believe in our main scenario of a "soft landing" and look forward to a positive second half of the year.
