Manager Commentary

Market review: January was an eventful start to the year for healthcare. First, companies gave a 360° overview of key topics at the JP Morgan healthcare conference, with many pre-announcing full-year results or giving 2025 guidance. Second, the Trump inauguration and RFK confirmation hearings provided some reassurance regarding the future policy landscape, though headline risk remains high. Third, the kick-off of Q4 reporting confirmed the trend seen at the conference, namely that the sector continues to benefit from rising utilization rates driven by the aging population. This demographic trend is expected to sustain robust sales growth. Medtech companies have specifically pointed out that this is not pent-up demand, but the “new normal”. Demand for therapeutics is strong, in particular in areas where age is a major risk factor, such as oncology and chronic autoimmune diseases. Overall, we see aligned fundamentals and sentiment providing a strong backdrop for 2025 in healthcare.

Portfolio changes: We initiated new positions in Beigene and RadNet and we did not exit any position.

Performance review: The largest attributors vs. the index were Ambu (+23 bps / Reported preliminary fiscal Q1 revenue above consensus and the full year guidance was raised. Ambu showed continued strong growth in both pulmonology and urology, ENT and GI within Endoscopy Solutions. Anaesthesia & Patient Monitoring was positive, too), Danaher (+19 bps / Not invested) and Abbott (+16 bps / Q4 results in-line with expectations, while the 2025 is considered to be conservative). The largest detractors vs the index were Edwards (-17 bps / Fear of increased competition in the core TAVR franchise), CVS (-16 bps / Not invested) and Biomarin (-14 bps / Announced legal action against Ascendis Pharma (patent covering long-acting variants of C-Type Natriuretic Peptide)).

ESG: Firms in the portfolio did not report any material ESG issues in January.
