Manager Commentary

Market review: January was an eventful start to the year for healthcare. First, companies gave a 360° overview of key topics at the JP Morgan healthcare conference, with many pre-announcing full-year results or giving 2025 guidance. Second, the Trump inauguration and RFK confirmation hearings provided some reassurance regarding the future policy landscape, though headline risk remains high. Third, the kick-off of Q4 reporting confirmed the trend seen at the conference, namely that the sector continues to benefit from rising utilization rates driven by the aging population. This demographic trend is expected to sustain robust sales growth. Medtech companies have specifically pointed out that this is not pent-up demand, but the "new normal". Demand for therapeutics is strong, in particular in areas where age is a major risk factor, such as oncology and chronic autoimmune diseases. Overall, we see aligned fundamentals and sentiment providing a strong backdrop for 2025 in healthcare.

Portfolio changes: We did not initiate a new position and no position was exited.

Performance review: The largest contributors were Intra-Cellular (+182 bps / J&J; aims to acquire Intra-Cellular for a total equity value of USD 14.6bn), Ambu (+100 bps / Reported preliminary fiscal Q1 revenue above consensus and the full year guidance was raised. Ambu showed continued strong growth in both pulmonology and urology, ENT and GI within Endoscopy Solutions. Anaesthesia & Patient Monitoring was positive, too) and Axsome (+68 bps / Releases preliminary results, which were in-line with consensus and Auvelity prescriptions continuing to do well). The largest detractors were RadNet (-20 bps / Momentum from December continued into January (profit taking following a 101% return in 2025). Later, various brokers adjusted 2025 EBITDA estimates, driven by management pointing to 1) planned new sales-and infrastructure investments to support expected growth in their Digital Health unit and 2) higher than average wage inflation), New Amsterdam (-17 bps / No news since strong positive phase 3 Broadway data mid-December) and Novo Nordisk (-8 bps / Obesity-related firms sold-off after Eli Lilly preannounced Q4 revenues below consensus. Later, CMS published the next 15 drugs for Medicare price negotiations (including Ozempic, Wegovy, Rybelsus). Novo Nordisk recouped some of the losses after announcing topline results from a phase 1B/2a trial with amycretin in people with overweight/obesity).

ESG: Firms in the portfolio did not report any material ESG issues in January.
