MARKET COMMENT (BASED ON THE SICAV REFERENCE CURRENCY)

In October, European equities recorded their strongest monthly decline year to date, following a sell-off in the last days of the month after a weaker-than-expected U.S. jobs report and disappointing earnings. The upcoming U.S. elections generated volatility globally at the end of the month as the polls repositioned both candidates close to each other, unwinding some Trump trades. Growth was a major concern in Europe, as acknowledged by the ECB which cut its interest rate by 25bp. Industrial and car production declined according to VDA data and the manufacturing PMI remained firmly in contraction territory. Meanwhile, the Eurozone picked up to 2% year-on-year in October, driven by a base effect in oil prices and by food. Oil prices were volatile given that investors weighed signs of weakening demand against the risks caused by geopolitical tensions in the Middle East. From a factor perspective, Low Risk had a mildly positive month, Value outperformed and Quality trended down. Consumer Services, Tech and Banks were the strongest performing sectors while Semi-conductors, Consumer Durables and Real Estate underperformed the most. In this context, the fund decreased by -1.95% in October, outperforming its benchmark by 131bp. The MSCI Europe TR Net decreased by -3.26%. The fund records a positive YTD performance of 10.57%, outperforming its benchmark by 233bp.

From an industry groups point of view, both selection and allocation effects added to the relative performance. The overweight in Telecommunication (20bp) and underweight in Consumer Durables (26bp) were supportive. Conversely, the underexposure to Capital Goods (-21bp) and Banks (-17bp) was unfavorable. In terms of selection, the stock picking in Utilities (30bp), Pharmaceuticals (19bp) and Software (15bp) was particularly successful.

By country, the selection effect mainly explains the relative outperformance. The stock picking in the Netherlands (32bp), Portugal (18bp) and Belgium (17bp) generated the strongest relative gains. With a positive contribution of 18bp, the overweight in UCB, a Belgium company operating in the Pharmaceuticals sector, was the top contributor to excess returns. Conversely, Shell (not held in the portfolio), an UK corporation operating in the Energy industry, was the largest detractor with -13bp.
