Investing involves risk including the risk of loss of capital. Past performance does not predict future returns. Neither simulated nor historical performance is a reliable indicator for current or future performance.

Investment Policy

The aim of the fund is to achieve positive total return relative to the performance of the Bloomberg Commodity Index before fees and expenses by investing in various derivatives. The fund also endeavors to achieve enhancement through actively managing the derivatives. Its low correlation with traditional asset classes makes the fund an ideal portfolio diversification instrument. Furthermore, it offers good protection from inflation risks in the event of a rise in commodity prices.

Potential Risks

The Fund's risk and reward profile does not reflect the risk inherent in future circumstances that differ from what the Fund has experienced in the recent past. This includes the following events which are rare but can have a large impact.

- Credit risk: Issuers of assets held by the Fund may not pay income or repay capital when due. Part of the Fund's investments may have considerable credit risk.
- Liquidity risk: Assets cannot necessarily be sold at limited cost in an adequately short timeframe. However, this Fund's investments should generally have good liquidity.
- Counterparty risk: Bankruptcy or insolvency of the Fund's derivative counterparties may lead to payment or delivery default. The Subfund will endeavor to mitigate this risk by the receipt of financial collateral given as guarantees.
- Operational risk: Deficient processes, technical failures or catastrophic events may cause losses.
- Political and Legal risks: Investments are exposed to changes of rules and standards applied by a specific country. This includes restrictions on currency convertibility, the imposing of taxes or controls on transactions, the limitations of property rights or other legal risks. Investments in less developed financial markets may expose the Fund to increased operational, legal and political risk.
- Sustainability risks: Sustainability risks are environmental, social or governance events or conditions that can have a material negative effect on the return, depending on the relevant sector, industry and company exposure.

The product's investment objectives, risks, charges and expenses, as well as more complete information about the product, are provided in the prospectus (or relevant offering document), which should be read carefully before investing.

Investors may lose part or all of their invested amount. The investment promoted in this marketing material concerns the acquisition of units or shares in a fund and not of any underlying assets. The underlying assets are owned by the fund only. Any decision to invest should take into account all the characteristics or objectives of the promoted fund as described in its prospectus, or similar legal documentation.

² The risk indicator assumes you keep the Product for 7 years. The actual risk can vary significantly if you redeem at an early stage and you may get back less. The Summary Risk Indicator is a guide to the level of risk of this Product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the Product will lose money because of movements in the markets. Be aware of currency risk if your reference currency differs from the currency of the Product. You may receive payments in a different currency, so the final return you will get depends on the exchange rate between the two currencies. Investors shall note that the Product may be exposed to further risks such as operational, counterparty, political, sustainability and legal risks that are not included in the Summary Risk Indicator. This Product does not include any protection from future market performance so you could lose some or all of your investment.

³ ESG data provided is for information purposes only and does not infer that this product is considered a sustainable investment under the CS Sustainable Investment Framework.

⁴ If the currency of a financial product and/or its costs is different from your reference currency, the return and cost may increase or decrease as a result of currency fluctuations.

Market overview

Natural Gas, Sugar and Coffee were the largest outperformers. Natural Gas rose during the latter half of the month as a storm in the Gulf of Mexico increased the potential for gas production outages in the area, creating risks of lower-than-expected supplies. Sugar rose, as continued dry conditions and recent wildfires in major sugarcane growing regions of Brazil threatened to reduce yields, thus weighing on global supply expectations. Finally, Coffee was up, as persistently dry conditions in major Arabica coffee-producing regions of Brazil threatened crop growth and flower development, leading to global supply concerns. The largest detractors this month all came from the Energy sector, with Crude Oil, Ultra-Low Sulfur Diesel (ULSD) and Brent Crude Oil all tumbling. Crude Oil fell during the month mainly due to Saudi Arabia, the world's biggest crude exporter, announcing intentions to raise oil output later this year, which created the potential for looser supply-and-demand balances. ULSD declined alongside oil and oil products following the announcement of reduced demand expectations for the rest of 2024 and 2025 from the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries plus Russia (OPEC+). Lastly, Brent Crude Oil fell in the beginning of the month, due to supply risks from geopolitical tensions in Libya subsiding after a prospective deal to revive oil output.

Agriculture rose for the month, with Sugar and Coffee as the main drivers. The Industrial Metals sector was up, led by Copper and Zinc. Copper prices were lifted by an announcement of policy measures in China designed to support the Chinese economy. Moreover, Zinc prices increased following a pledge to reduce production by 70% of China's zinc smelters in response to negative margin conditions. Precious Metals rose, with both Silver and Gold increasing. Silver prices rose as weaker-than-expected data on the labour market reinforced expectations for the US Federal Reserve to continue reducing interest rates, lowering the opportunity cost of holding non-yield-bearing precious metals. Gold prices increased as the US dollar fell, lifting demand for alternative stores of value such as precious metals. Livestock was up, led by an increase in prices of Live Cattle due to the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) reporting lower cattle placements into feedlots during August, reducing expectations for future supply. Live Cattle prices also rose following the release of the latest World Agricultural Supply and Demand Estimates (WASDE) report, where the USDA raised expected beef exports for 2024 and 2025, citing stronger-than-expected global demand conditions. Finally, Energy was slightly up, despite all constituents except Natural Gas being down.

Outlook

Geopolitical risks have pushed petroleum prices sharply higher following escalations in the Middle East. However, we do not expect this strength to continue unless there is a visible impact to crude production capacity. In addition, ample spare capacity among OPEC+ countries is likely to act as a dampening factor on prices to the upside. Similarly, evidence that recent Chinese stimulus announcements are translating to increased metals consumption in the country will likely be required to keep Industrial Metals prices from reversing recent gains. The onset of La Niña is expected to occur during the last few months of the year, which could negatively impact growing conditions for grains and oil seeds, particularly in South America. Weather impacts in major production regions could also continue to support prices for soft commodities.
