Potential Risks

The Fund's risk and reward profile does not reflect the risk inherent in future circumstances that differ from what the Fund has experienced in the recent past. This includes the following events which are rare but can have a large impact.

- Credit risk: Issuers of assets held by the Fund may not pay income or repay capital when due. The Fund's investments generally have low credit risk.
- Liquidity risk: Assets cannot necessarily be sold at limited cost in an adequately short timeframe. The Fund's investments may be prone to limited liquidity. The Fund will endeavor to mitigate this risk by various measures. In addition, short selling of securities may expose the Fund to particular liquidity risk.
- Counterparty risk: Bankruptcy or insolvency of the Fund's derivative counterparties may lead to payment or delivery default. The Subfund will endeavor to mitigate this risk by the receipt of financial collateral given as guarantees.
- Operational risk: Deficient processes, technical failures or catastrophic events may cause losses.
- Political and Legal risks: Investments are exposed to changes of rules and standards applied by a specific country. This includes restrictions on currency convertibility, the imposing of taxes or controls on transactions, the limitations of property rights or other legal risks.
- Sustainability risks: Sustainability risks are environmental, social or governance events or conditions that can have a material negative effect on the return, depending on the relevant sector, industry and company exposure.

The product's investment objectives, risks, charges and expenses, as well as more complete information about the product, are provided in the prospectus (or relevant offering document), which should be read carefully before investing.

Investors may lose part or all of their invested amount. The Fund's use of leverage may lead to an amplified reaction to market movements, i.e. increase the volatility of the Fund and may amount to a more substantial loss than in unleveraged products. The investment promoted in this marketing material concerns the acquisition of units or shares in a fund and not of any underlying assets. The underlying assets are owned by the fund only. The full offering documentation including complete information on risks may be obtained free of charge from a UBS client advisor, representative, or, where applicable, via Fundsearch (credit-suisse.com/fundsearch).

Market Commentary

Hedge funds gained +0.02% in August as measured by the Credit Suisse Liquid Alternative Beta model performance. For the month, the Credit Suisse Liquid Alternative Beta Fund returned -0.06%. Gains in the programme's Long/Short Equity and Event Driven category models broadly offset a loss in the Global Strategies category model. Market fragility came into focus early in the month as investors digested the Bank of Japan's long-anticipated monetary policy normalisation, Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) July data and a weak, Hurricane Beryl-tainted, July US jobs report. With summer holidays weighing on market liquidity, convulsive rounds of speculative repositioning found little buffering. Interest rates gapped lower as the US dollar depreciated, and equities slumped before regaining momentum in the first full week of the month. A more constructive picture of the US economy emerged as the Census Bureau's July retail sales print surprised to the upside and Walmart raised its full-year guidance. To further complicate matters, both the University of Michigan Consumer Sentiment Index and the Conference Board Consumer Confidence Index showed increased optimism coinciding with gains in Harris's campaign momentum. Nonetheless, Federal Reserve Chair Jerome Powell turned decidedly dovish in his speech at Jackson Hole, strongly emphasising flagging labour market data. Nvidia's fiscal Q2 2025 earnings punctuated what had already been a tumultuous month: the company's shares plummeted when investors proved unconvinced that the market opportunity in GPU-based accelerated computing outweighed broader concerns regarding the uncertain return on investment in AI. Directional Equity and short Market Neutral Size exposures drove positive performance in the Long/Short Equity category model. In the Event Driven category model, gains on Credit and cash returns were sufficient to overcome losses on Event Oriented Equities exposure. The Global Strategies category model benefited from volatility carry, as well as from its event driven factor exposure, but incurred losses on FX directional, FX carry and trend positioning. During the programme's monthly rebalancing, the Long/Short Equity category model's positioning remained largely unchanged as the magnitude of its exposures declined incrementally. The Event Driven category model decreased event oriented equities exposure and added credit exposure. The Global Strategies category model moderately reduced FX carry, trend, and volatility carry factor exposures and otherwise marginally increased risk.
