Performance commentary

Different volumes were traded in July (CHF 24.6 million), August (CHF 19.6 million), and September (CHF 20.1 million), with July being relatively high. The monthly trading volume over the past twelve months was CHF 28.9 million.

The investment return as of mid-financial year 2024 was 1.29%, while the rent default rate increased slightly to 3.76% compared to the first half of 2023. Rental income increased significantly by CHF 7.8 million to CHF 65.4 million (previous year: CHF 57.6 million). The mid-2024 semi-annual report was published at the end of August 2024.

In Breitipark in Schaffhausen, tenants were able to move into the last of the seven apartment buildings at the beginning of August 2024. The individual apartment buildings have been completed in stages since spring 2023. The new buildings were very popular, with all 146 apartments rented out within a very short period of time. Currently, the CS REF Green Property still has two ongoing construction projects. The fund holds a 50% co-ownership share in the Tivoli Garten in Spreitenbach. The project is scheduled for completion in spring 2025. The new development comprises 445 apartments, 2,113 m² of office space, and 11,453 m² of retail space. The CS REF Green Property's second project is located at Untermattweg 8 in Bern. The total renovation and partial conversion of the office building, which was constructed in 1968, will begin this fall. The transformation will continue until spring 2030. After that, the renovated building will feature 69 apartments and approximately 9,800 m² of office and commercial space, which have already been leased on a long-term basis.

Market comments

Rental housing market

The fundamental data on the Swiss housing market remain very positive. Following the record level in 2023, net immigration is down on the previous year at just under 50,000 between January and August 2024, though it remains at a high level. As a result, demand for rental apartments continues to rise sharply, while the increase in supply, with 38,000 residential units approved for construction over the past 12 months, is recovering only slowly from the very low level. The ongoing shortage is therefore driving rents further upward: According to Wüest Partner, asking rents increased by 6.4% across Switzerland in 2Q24. In the past year, two hikes in the reference mortgage rate by 25 basis points each in June and December 2023 also led to increases in existing rents in the rental housing market. Since the reference interest rate is based on the volume-weighted average interest rate of outstanding mortgage loans from Swiss banks, no further increase in the reference interest rate is expected, as mortgage rates have currently been declining. However, due to the high proportion of fixed-rate mortgages, the interest rate level for part of the overall mortgage portfolio is continuing to rise despite key interest rate cuts, depending on the term and timing of refinancing.

Office space

The office space market remains characterized by uncertainty regarding future space requirements due to hybrid work models, although the impact in Switzerland is moderate compared by international standards, due to the high presence of office spaces. In addition, employment growth is supporting demand for office space. At +26,900 FTE, growth in 1H24 slowed slightly but remained positive. The supply ratio also remained largely stable. Zurich recorded a slight increase from 4.8% in 4Q23 to 5.1% in 2Q24, while the rate remained constant at 6.1% in Geneva. Basel and Zug even saw slight decreases. Polarization in favor of prime offices remains, which is also reflected in rents: In 2Q24, prime rents increased by 4.3% year-on-year, while average rents fell by 2%.

Retail space

Retail space is facing structural and economic challenges due to online retail. However, consumer sentiment is improving thanks to rising real wages, though the growth in retail sales remains subdued. Accordingly, the situation on the retail market is similar: According to Wüest Partner, rents for retail spaces in 2Q24 decreased by 1.4% compared to the previous year. By contrast, in prime locations, particularly in Zurich, rents have risen significantly, supported in part by the return of tourists.

³ If the currency of a financial product and/or its costs is different from your reference currency, the return and cost may increase or decrease as a result of currency fluctuations.
