Monthly comment

September saw ongoing volatility in global equity markets, but ultimately edged higher on the back of the anticipated first rate cut by the Fed. The larger-than-expected 50bps cut by the Fed suggests a possible soft landing, which contributed to the positive performance of the Partners Group Listed Investments SICAV - Listed Infrastructure Fund, which increased by nearly 3% in September. This brought the total third quarter performance to 8.5%, significantly outpacing major equity indices by almost 700bps. Many sectors, especially interest rate sensitive sectors such as communication and utilities, performed well thanks to the more dovish outlook for inflation and rates. Airports also had a strong performance due to continued traffic growth supporting the outlook. The portfolio is well positioned to benefit from the current macro environment as we head into the last quarter of the year.

In September, ENN Energy, the Chinese gas utility, showed significant growth due to government stimulus measures, such as interest rate cuts, fiscal stimulus, support for state-owned enterprises, and new monetary policy tools. Additionally, regional municipal governments announced measures to revitalize the real estate sector, including easing property purchase restrictions, reducing mortgage down payments, and reducing taxes and fees on housing sales. These stimulus efforts, particularly in the housing market, are expected to have a direct positive impact on gas utilities through increased gas connections and higher demand related to construction.

Orsted, the Danish offshore wind operator, had a positive performance in the month. The stock gained from the Federal Reserve's more dovish stance, as well as from its progress in the investment portfolio, securing 3.5GW of UK offshore wind projects at a 45% higher price compared to 2022 levels for the first part of the project. The combination of increased tariffs and declining interest rates is expected to reinforce the investment rationale.

Finally, Aena, the Spanish airport operator, maintained its impressive performance this year, with persistent growth in passenger traffic. In August 2024, the passenger traffic increased by 9% compared to 2019 levels, following a July increase of 8.5% and a 13% increase in the second quarter. Year-to-date traffic remains at 11.4% above 2019 levels, in line with management's projected guidance for the full year.
