Portfolio commentary

Equity market performance was weaker in the reporting month of October. Both the Swiss equity market and the international equity markets have predominantly suffered price falls. But fundamentally nothing has changed. We expect a below-average but positive global economy for the rest of 2024. A recession in the USA or a financial market crisis appears unlikely. We therefore remain positive overall for the markets. Inflation is falling and further interest rate cuts will follow. The ECB reduced the base rate by 0.25 % in the month under review.

Due to the high valuations and the geopolitical risks, as well as the upcoming US presidential election, we continue to remain neutral in our equities position.

Our investment in gold as a precious metal also increased in value again in October and has moved very pleasingly to new record highs over the course of the year to date.

In the case of bonds, credit spreads fell during October. Swiss interest rates trended downwards. We continue to be underweight in this segment.
