Portfolio managers comments

Emerging markets witnessed significant volatility in June, this time driven by elections across several emerging markets. In India the incumbent Prime Minister Modi got reelected as expected but the surprise came from a coalition government as Modi won less support from voters than last election. Stock market reacted initially with an immediate sell-off but quickly recovered as most of the important positions in the government remain in the hands of Modi's allies'. Investors for now assume a continuation of current policy which explains the bullish reaction of the market since, with MSCI India up +8% (in EUR) during the month of June, and +20% since beginning of the year. Despite strong growth outlook for this country in the coming years, valuation stays stretched (22.7x fwd PE and 3.8x PB). Relative to EM and China, the valuation premium is near all-time high. For the above reasons, we remain cautious on the regional weight and will only selectively add on positions with high quality and relatively attractive valuation.

If Indian election results were reassuring overall with no major policy change in sight, the landslide victory of the incoming president in Mexico largely surpassed expectations. Mexican equities fell by 10% in June and the peso dropped to its weakest level against the USD in six months. The sell-off was driven by concerns over Morena's supermajority which may support the incumbent President's efforts to rewrite the constitution in ways that undermine democracy and hurt business in the country. The new cabinet announced weeks later was rather reassuring with a heavy weight from technocrats. We reduced our position on Banorte on the rebound as we think the visibility remains weak for the months ahead and the shares had already done very well (+49% in EUR in 2023, +43% as of 31/05/2024 right before the election).

During the month, DNCA Invest Global Emerging Markets delivered a performance of +3.46% in the month, compared with +5.23% for its reference index. The underperformance mainly came from country allocation as China was consolidating after the rally in April/May, while both India and Taiwan achieved new highs where the fund is underweighting. The fund also took a hit from its overweight in Mexico (though the overweight had been cut by half before the election). Among stocks, China Resources Beer and Zhejiang Sanhua Intelligent were among the underperformers in China pocket as confidence for consumption (one for beer, the other for air conditioners and electric cars) remains low, despite rather reassuring tones from both management teams. Grupo Financiero Banorte suffered the most (among Mexican stocks) from the Mexican election outcome as banks are more sensitive to potential weakening of business confidence and secondly, this is one of the favorite Mexican holdings for foreign investors hence is more sensitive to selling on Mexico from foreign investors. Amorepacific corrected post strong rally in previous months, due to short-term concerns over its 2Q results. We remain convinced by its structural shift in its sales/profit driver from China centric to the rest of the world, leading to more sustainable growth of its profits in the years to come. On the positive side, tech stocks are again the stars thanks to strength in AI boom: TSMC, SK Hynix and Samsung Electronics are the main contributors. We have trimmed positions on TSMC and SK Hynix post strong YTD rally.

Analysis methodology

We develop proprietary models based on our expertise and conviction to add tangible value in the selection of portfolio securities. DNCA's ESG analysis model, Above & Beyond Analysis (ABA), respects this principle and offers a rating that we control the entire construction. Information from companies is the main input to our rating. The methodologies for calculating ESG indicators and our responsible investor and engagement policy are available on our website by clicking here.

⁽¹⁾ The rating out of 10 integrates 4 risks of responsibility: shareholder, environmental, social and societal. Whatever their sector of activity, 24 indicators are evaluated, such as social climate, accounting risks, suppliers, business ethics, energy policy, quality of management.

⁽²⁾ The ABA Matrix combines the Responsibility Risk and the Sustainable Transition exposure of the portfolio. It allows us to map companies to be mapped using a risk/opportunity approach.

⁽³⁾ 1 No poverty. 2 Zero hunger. 3 Good health and well-being. 4 Quality education. 5 Gender equality. 6 Clean water and sanitation. 7 Clean and affordable energy. 8 Decent work and economic growth. 9 Industry, innovation and infrastructure. 10 Reduced inequalities. 11 Sustainable cities and communities. 12 Sustainable consumption and production. 13 Tackling climate change. 14 Aquatic life. 15 Terrestrial life. 16 Peace, justice and effective institutions. 17 Partnerships to achieve the goals.

⁽⁴⁾ 5 transitions based on a long-term perspective of the financing of the economy allow the identification of activities with a positive contribution to sustainable development and to measure the exposure of companies in terms of turnover as well as exposure to the UN Sustainable Development Goals.

*The coverage rate measures the proportion of issuers (equities and corporate bonds) taken into account in the calculation of the extra-financial indicators. This measure is calculated as a % of the net assets adjusted for cash, money market instruments, derivatives and any vehicle outside the scope of "listed equities and corporate bonds".

Glossary

Beta. Measures the average extent to which a fund moves relative to the broader market. The beta of a market is 1. A fund with a beta of more than 1 moves on average to a greater extent than the market. A fund with a beta of less than 1 moves on average to a lesser extent. If beta is a minus number, it is likely that the stock and the market move in opposite directions.

Correlation coefficient. The correlation coefficient is a measure of correlation. It is used to determine the relationship between two assets over a given period. A positive coefficient means that the two assets move in the same direction. Conversely, a negative coefficient means that the assets move in the opposite direction. The correlation or decorrelation can be more or less strong and varies between -1 and 1.

Dividend yield. Annual dividends per share / Price per share

EV (Enterprise Value). Market value of common stock + market value of preferred equity + market value of debt + minority interest - cash and investments.

ND/EBITDA (Net Debt / EBITDA). A measurement of leverage, calculated as a company's interest-bearing liabilities minus cash or cash equivalents, divided by its EBITDA. The net debt to EBITDA ratio is a debt ratio that shows how many years it would take for a company to pay back its debt if net debt and EBITDA are held constant.

P/B. The Price to Book Ratio is the ratio of the market value of equity (market capitalisation) to its book value. It is used to compare the market valuation of a company with its book value.

P/CF (Share price/Cash Flow per Share). The price-to-cash-flow ratio is an indicator of a stock's valuation.

PER (Price Earnings Ratio). A company's share price divided by the amount of profits it makes for each share in a 12-month period. PE ratios are normally calculated on the base of all the profit made in the period, whether or not the profit is paid out to shareholders in that period.

ROE (Return On Equity). The amount of net income returned as a percentage of shareholders equity. Return on equity measures a corporation's profitability by revealing how much profit a company generates with the money shareholders have invested.

Sharpe Ratio. A way of measuring the historical risk-adjusted return on an investment. It is the average previous return minus the risk-free return, divided by the standard deviation (a measure of risk that looks at the diversion of actual returns from expected returns).

Sharpe Ratio. The Sharpe ratio measures the excess return over the risk-free money rate of an asset portfolio divided by the standard deviation of that return. It is therefore a measure of the marginal return per unit of risk. It is used to measure the performance of managers with different risk policies.

Tracking error. Tracking Error is a measure of how closely an investment portfolio follows the index against which it is benchmarked. It is the difference in the return earned by a portfolio and the return earned by the benchmark against which the portfolio is constructed. For example, if a bond portfolio earns a return of 5.15% during a period when the portfolio's benchmark (say, for example, the Lehman Brothers Index) produces a return of 5.06%, the tracking error is .09%, or 9 basis points.
