Investment objective

The investment objective of DNCA Invest - Global Convertibles (the "Sub-Fund") is to outperform the Index over the recommended minimum investment period of 4 years by investing in global convertible bonds markets. #### Portfolio managers comments

The main Western equity indices consolidated their positions in December, while their Asian counterparts ended the last month of the year on a positive note. The Fed cut its key rates by 25bp, in line with market expectations, and now expects only 2 cuts in 2025. In the Eurozone, the ECB cut its deposit rate by 25bp. Despite the inflexion of monetary policies over the past year, tensions on rate levels were observed on both sides of the Atlantic. These movements reflect adjustments in expectations, particularly following the Fed's now slightly less accommodating stance. The situation is more mixed in the € zone, which is suffering from political uncertainties in its two biggest contributors, Germany and France, while the countries of Southern Europe are faring much better. These dynamics are reflected in the €/€ exchange rate, which is now tending towards parity. In China, the government remains vague about its plans to support the economy. Its stimulus measures are likely to rely more on fiscal policy, with details to be provided in the first quarter of 2025.

In this environment, the primary market picked up again, mainly in the United States with $9.5 billion. A single issue was placed in Europe for almost €150m, as well as one in Japan for 10 billion yen. The portfolio subscribed to the placements of Bill.com 2030 and Datadog 2029, two issuers well known to the convertible market, who came to refinance. On the secondary front, the portfolio strengthened its position in the US with Fluor 2029, Wayfair 2027, Ford 2026 and Guidewire 2029, as well as new investments in Nutanix 2029 and Terawulf 2030. These operations were financed by profit-taking on high-delta positions such as Bloom Energy 2029, Daifuku 2030, SBI 2031 and Saipem 2029, as well as reductions on Xiaomi 2027, JFE 2029 and Infroneer 2029.

The valuation of global convertible bonds remained broadly stable over the month, with a slight increase for European convertibles. Geopolitical uncertainties remain high at the start of the year. The year 2025 will also bring its share of challenges: US tariffs, fiscal consolidation and trade tensions. After two years of historic underperformance in 2021 and 2022, convertible products have confirmed their return to a behavior more in line with their traditional performance-volatility profile. It is one of the few segments that has not yet made up for the downturn of 2022. The coming year could bring such a turnaround, thanks to positive momentum in both its bond and equity drivers. The fund's positioning is balanced, with a delta close to 51% and a current yield of 1.1%.

Glossary

Beta. Measures the average extent to which a fund moves relative to the broader market. The beta of a market is 1. A fund with a beta of more than 1 moves on average to a greater extent than the market. A fund with a beta of less than 1 moves on average to a lesser extent. If beta is a minus number, it is likely that the stock and the market move in opposite directions.

Correlation coefficient. The correlation coefficient is a measure of correlation. It is used to determine the relationship between two assets over a given period. A positive coefficient means that the two assets move in the same direction. Conversely, a negative coefficient means that the assets move in the opposite direction. The correlation or decorrelation can be more or less strong and varies between -1 and 1.

Dividend yield. Annual dividends per share / Price per share

EV (Enterprise Value). Market value of common stock + market value of preferred equity + market value of debt + minority interest - cash and investments.

ND/EBITDA (Net Debt / EBITDA). A measurement of leverage, calculated as a company's interest-bearing liabilities minus cash or cash equivalents, divided by its EBITDA. The net debt to EBITDA ratio is a debt ratio that shows how many years it would take for a company to pay back its debt if net debt and EBITDA are held constant.

P/B. The Price to Book Ratio is the ratio of the market value of equity (market capitalisation) to its book value. It is used to compare the market valuation of a company with its book value.

P/CF (Share price/Cash Flow per Share). The price-to-cash-flow ratio is an indicator of a stock's valuation.

PER (Price Earnings Ratio). A company's share price divided by the amount of profits it makes for each share in a 12-month period. PE ratios are normally calculated on the base of all the profit made in the period, whether or not the profit is paid out to shareholders in that period.

ROE (Return On Equity). The amount of net income returned as a percentage of shareholders equity. Return on equity measures a corporation's profitability by revealing how much profit a company generates with the money shareholders have invested.

Sharpe Ratio. A way of measuring the historical risk-adjusted return on an investment. It is the average previous return minus the risk-free return, divided by the standard deviation (a measure of risk that looks at the diversion of actual returns from expected returns).

Sharpe Ratio. The Sharpe ratio measures the excess return over the risk-free money rate of an asset portfolio divided by the standard deviation of that return. It is therefore a measure of the marginal return per unit of risk. It is used to measure the performance of managers with different risk policies.

Tracking error. Tracking Error is a measure of how closely an investment portfolio follows the index against which it is benchmarked. It is the difference in the return earned by a portfolio and the return earned by the benchmark against which the portfolio is constructed. For example, if a bond portfolio earns a return of 5.15% during a period when the portfolio's benchmark (say, for example, the Lehman Brothers Index) produces a return of 5.06%, the tracking error is .09%, or 9 basis points.
