Source: Bellevue Asset Management, 31.07.2024; all figures in USD %, total return / BVI-methodology

Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future results and can be misleading. As the fund is denominated in a currency that may differ than an investor's base currency, changes in the rate of exchange may have an adverse effect on prices and incomes. Performance is shown net of fees and expenses for the relevant share class over the reference period. All performance figures reflect the reinvestment of dividends and do not take into account the commissions and costs incurred on the issue and redemption of shares, if any. Individual costs are not taken into account and would have a negative impact on the performance. With an investment amount of USD 1,000 over an investment period of five years, the investment result in the first year would be reduced by the front-end load of up to USD 50 (5%) as well as by additional individual custody charges. In subsequent years, the investment result would also be reduced by the individual custody account costs incurred. The reference benchmark of this class is used for performance comparison purposes only (dividend reinvested). The fund is actively managed. No benchmark is directly identical to a fund, thus the performance of a benchmark is not a reliable indicator of future performance of the fund to which it is compared. There can be no assurance that a return will be achieved or that a substantial loss of capital will not be incurred.

Market review

Stocks made pleasing gains in July. The S&P advanced 1.2%, the MSCI World Healthcare Index 3.3%, and the Bellevue Obesity Solutions (Lux) Fund 1.7% (USD / I shares).

July was also a volatile month as markets digested major macroeconomic and political developments. A better-than-expected reading from the US Consumer Price Index (CPI) at the beginning of the month followed by a weak jobs market report raised investor hopes that the Federal Reserve would soon cut its interest rates. The Fed's first rate cut is now expected to be announced in September. Stocks with a weak relative performance year to date made good gains in July as investors showed greater interest in small cap stocks, which are more sensitive to interest rate cuts. This large-scale rotation propelled the Russell 2000 to its best monthly outperformance vs the Nasdaq 100 in more than 20 years.

Market rotation was also observed within the healthcare sector, with stocks such as Bristol-Myers, Pfizer, J&J and Gilead gaining about 10%, while the top performers for the year shed value. The ongoing reporting season has revealed the following sector dynamics: Pharma beat expectations and management forecasts were revised upward; growth in the medtech segment has slowed; end markets for life sciences are beginning to recover; and profitability in healthcare services segment is rising.

The following stocks were the best portfolio performers in July: Lonza reported strong results from its Biologics division, especially in bioconjugates services, and lingering doubts about whether demand in its end-user markets would hold steady were removed after the publication of its latest quarterly results. New long-term commercial contracts and a healthy order flow for Lonza's early-phase drug development services also contributed to strategic growth. Encompass Health was marked up without any specific triggers. Sandoz tacked on more gains in the wake of its successful launches of Hyrimoz (biosimilar to AbbVie's Humira) and Tyruko (biosimilar to Biogen's Tysabri) in terms of both prescription volume and sales.

The following stocks detracted from fund performance: Novo Nordisk corrected due to the widespread market rotation, which to some extent reflected profit taking in GLP-1 manufacturers. Positive early data on Roche's GLP-1 agonist also put Novo Nordisk shares under pressure. Dexcom, a manufacturer of continuous glucose monitoring systems, was marked down after reporting lower-than-expected sales due to the restructuring of its sales force, lower revenue per customer due to discount offers, and a dip in market share. Edwards stock tanked after the company lowered its sales forecast for its transcatheter aortic valve replacement device.

Positioning & outlook

The companies in the fund's portfolio are working on technologies or products for novel treatment solutions and holistic treatment approaches. Selected healthcare companies with relevant exposure to the obesity care market can be found in the portfolio, and up to 20% of the fund's assets can be invested in fitness and nutrition companies that have a strong growth profile and a modest valuation. The Bellevue Obesity Solutions (Lux) Fund is well-positioned to profit from the milestones likely to be reached in 2024. On the regulatory front, innovation that helps to address the obesity crisis is being encouraged and promoted. Besides clinical trial data readouts and today's attractive valuations, share prices will also be driven ongoing M&A activity.

We expect positive developments regarding obesity treatment throughout the year and major clinical trial readouts. For example, Novo Nordisk will present Phase III data on CagriSema before the current year ends. We also expect important data from portfolio companies AstraZeneca or Eli Lilly on their Amylin agonist at the annual EASD meeting in September or at the ObesityWeek 2024 conference in November. Updates on experimental treatments that preserve muscle mass are anticipated, for instance from Eli Lilly, Regeneron and Scholar Rock. Demand is currently much greater than supply, so increasing production levels is crucial for the GLP-1 market. We are also closely monitoring developments as to whether this class of therapeutics could be approved for the treatment of other diseases, such as cardiovascular disorders, obstructive sleep apnea and chronic kidney disease.

Risk and return profile acc. to SRI

The Fund’s investment objective is to generate attractive and competitive long-term capital growth. It is particularly suited to investors with an investment horizon of at least 5 years. The Fund is exposed to the risks typical of equity investments.

We have classified this product as risk class 5 on a scale of 1 to 7, where 5 corresponds to a medium-high risk class. The risk of potential losses from future performance is classified as medium-high. In the event of very adverse market conditions, it is likely that the ability to execute your redemption request will be im-paired. The calculation of the risk and earnings profile is based on simulated/historical data, which cannot be used as a reliable indication of the future risk profile. The classification of the fund may change in future and does not constitute a guarantee. Even a fund classed in category 1 does not constitute a completely risk-free investment. There can be no guarantee that a return will be achieved or that a substantial loss of capital will not be incurred. The overall risk exposure may have a strong impact on any return achieved by the fund or subfund. For further information please refer to the fund prospectus or PRIIP-KID.

Liquidity risk

The fund may invest some of its assets in financial instruments that may in certain circumstances reach a relatively low level of liquidity, which can have an impact on the fund’s liquidity.

Risk arising from the use of derivatives

The fund may conclude derivatives transactions. This increases opportunities, but also involves an increased risk of loss.

Currency risks

The fund may invest in assets denominated in a foreign currency. Changes in the rate of exchange may have an adverse effect on prices and incomes.

Operational risks and custody risks

The fund is subject to risks due to operational or human errors, which can arise at the investment company, the custodian bank, a custodian or other third parties.

Benefits

- The increasing prevalence of obesity, the numerous associated comorbidities and subsequent medical conditions, and its huge direct and indirect economic burden make obesity very attractive from an investment perspective.
- This mega trend has gained a very visible profile thanks to medical progress (e.g. GLP-1 agonists), high social interest and public campaigns.
- Companies active in this field have above-average growth potential for the above reasons.
- Access to innovative companies across the entire value chain, in nutrition and physical activity-related markets, obesity diagnostics and treatment, and in the treatment of the comorbidities and subsequent medical conditions.
- Bellevue – a pioneer in healthcare investing since 1993 and now one of the largest independent investors in the healthcare space in Europe.

You can find a detailed presentation of the risks faced by this fund in the “Special Investment Risks” section of the sales prospectus.

Inherent risks

- The fund actively invests in equities. Stocks are subject to price fluctuations, so there is a risk of falling prices.
- The investments the fund makes may be denominated in foreign currency, which can entail a foreign-exchange risk relative to the fund’s base currency.
- The fund may invest some of its assets in financial instruments that may have relatively low levels of liquidity under certain circumstances, which may then affect the liquidity of the fund’s own shares.
- There are additional risks in the form of political and social unrest when investing in emerging markets.
- The fund may use derivatives. Derivatives offer greater upside potential yet also carry greater downside risk.
