Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future results and can be misleading. As the fund is denominated in a currency that may differ than an investor's base currency, changes in the rate of exchange may have an adverse effect on prices and incomes. Performance is shown net of fees and expenses for the relevant share class over the reference period. All performance figures reflect the reinvestment of dividends and do not take into account the commissions and costs incurred on the issue and redemption of shares, if any. Individual costs are not taken into account and would have a negative impact on the performance. With an investment amount of CHF 1,000 over an investment period of five years, the investment result in the first year would be reduced by the front-end load of up to CHF 50 (5%) as well as by additional individual custody charges. In subsequent years, the investment result would also be reduced by the individual custody account costs incurred. The reference benchmark of this class is used for performance comparison purposes only (dividend reinvested). The funds is actively managed. No benchmark is directly identical to a fund, thus the performance of a benchmark is not a reliable indicator of future performance of the fund to which it is compared. There can be no assurance that a return will be achieved or that a substantial loss of capital will not be incurred.

Market review

Global stocks sustained their upward trend in June. The MSCI World Index advanced just over 2% in USD. The macro mix of slightly lower rates of inflation and a world economy whose growth is neither too fast nor too slow has sustained the optimistic mood among investors. This means the Goldilocks scenario is still intact. It appears that the Federal Reserve could announce its first rate cut before the year is over, and before company earnings potentially experience a major meltdown. With inflation in Switzerland running at much more moderate levels than in the US and in view of the Swiss franc's steady appreciation against all majors currency, the Swiss National Bank lowered its key interest rate by 0.25% in June, its second cut in several months. During the coming two months, however, investor attention will again be focused on company earnings announcements. This will also be the case in Asian markets, which ended the month under review with a gain of about 1.7%. Healthcare stocks in this region were marginally weaker, advancing 1% compared to the end of May. Asian healthcare stocks were led by the strong performance of Indian stocks. Indian stocks in general benefited from Prime Minister Modi's reelection. Chinese stocks, on the other hand, continued to struggle amid a weak domestic economy. The Hang Seng retreated 1% in June.

As already mentioned, Chinese healthcare stocks underperformed the broader market in June. This can be traced to lingering uncertainty unleashed by the government's anti-corruption campaign and to the ongoing general geopolitical tension. We were in contact with executives from numerous Chinese healthcare companies last month. They confirmed that the negative fallout of the government's anti-corruption efforts had eased significantly in recent weeks. Most of the Chinese companies in the fund's portfolio generate almost all of their sales in China, and we are confident that the companies in the portfolio will report significantly better results compared to the previous quarter. This would be an important stepping stone toward regaining the confidence of foreign investors.

At the American Diabetes Association's 84th annual meeting in June 2024, Innovent Biologics presented detailed data from its GLORY-1 trial of mazdutide, a GLP-1R/GCGR dual agonist, for fatty liver disease and weight loss. On average, the participants lost 18.6% of their body weight after 48 weeks of treatment with mazdutide with a dosage of 9 mg. This significant weight loss was accompanied by improvements in several metabolic parameters, including blood lipids, blood pressure, and insulin sensitivity. Most impressive was the reported 80.2% reduction in liver fat. These results clearly demonstrate the investigational drug's effectiveness in treating nonalcoholic fatty liver disease (NAFLD) and in improving overall liver health.

Positions in Eisai, CSPC Pharma and Hansoh were increased during the past month. Shareholdings of Max Healthcare and Sun Pharma were reduced and Apollo Hospitals and Dr. Reddy's are no longer in the portfolio.

Positioning & outlook

Asia is the most dynamic growth region in the world and it accounts for more than half of the world's population. Asian emerging markets are forecast to account for more than 50% of global GDP by 2050. As household incomes rise, the economic growth model of Asian countries will shift from manufacturing to the services sector. A growing middle class fuels demand for modern medicine. Healthcare ranks increasingly high on their wish list. Billions are being invested in infrastructure, technology and research to modernize the healthcare systems in emerging market countries. This is giving a greater swath of the population access to better healthcare. Meanwhile, rapid population aging is also stoking demand for healthcare. In 30 years there will be 400 to 500 mn people over 60 in China alone, and they will have a growing need for modern health services and medicines.

Japan, which has been referred to as "the world's demographic laboratory", has championed cutting-edge innovation for decades. The Land of the Rising Sun boasts technology leadership in numerous fields, ranging from therapeutic antibody technology, immunotherapy and robotics to digitalization, diagnostics and medical imaging systems. The fund offers defensive access to Asian emerging markets as well as exciting investment opportunities in technology leaders throughout the entire region. It invests in the entire healthcare system value chain, from generic drug producers and biotechnology companies to medical device manufacturers and digital health specialists.

Risk and return profile acc. to SRI

The Fund’s objective is to generate an attractive return over a long-term horizon. It is therefore particularly suited to investors with an investment horizon of at least 5 years who want to diversify their portfolio with selective exposure to the healthcare sector in Asia and who are willing to accept the risks typically associated with stocks in this sector.

We have classified this product as risk class 4 on a scale of 1 to 7, where 4 corresponds to a medium risk class. The risk of potential losses from future performance is classified as medium. In the event of very adverse market conditions, it is possible that the ability to execute your redemption request may be impaired. The calculation of the risk and earnings profile is based on simulated/historical data, which cannot be used as a reliable indication of the future risk profile. The classification of the fund may change in future and does not constitute a guarantee. Even a fund classed in category 1 does not constitute a completely risk-free investment. There can be no guarantee that a return will be achieved or that a substantial loss of capital will not be incurred. The overall risk exposure may have a strong impact on any return achieved by the fund or subfund. For further information please refer to the fund prospectus or PRIIP-KID.

Liquidity risk

The fund may invest some of its assets in financial instruments that may in certain circumstances reach a relatively low level of liquidity, which can have an impact on the fund’s liquidity.

Risk arising from the use of derivatives

The fund may conclude derivatives transactions. This increases opportunities, but also involves an increased risk of loss.

Currency risks

The fund may invest in assets denominated in a foreign currency. Changes in the rate of exchange may have an adverse effect on prices and incomes.

Operational risks and custody risks

The fund is subject to risks due to operational or human errors, which can arise at the investment company, the custodian bank, a custodian or other third parties.
