October 2024 Performance Update

Fund AuM ¹	USD	10 m
Firm AuM ¹	USD	188 m

The Fund pursues a long-biased fundamental equity strategy focused on European and US markets. Assets are predominately invested in companies with a proven track record of compounding cash flow or earnings over sustained periods of time. Hedging techniques will be applied to cushion assets against higher volatility. The portfolio is managed with a 3- to 5-year time horizon and not managed in reference to a benchmark.

The portfolio ended the month of October up 2.5%. The S&P 500 (EUR) increased by 1.9%, the MSCI World (EUR) by 0.8%, the Nasdaq 100 (EUR) by 2.0% and the Stoxx 50 (EUR) declined by 3.3% during the period.

The rise in Treasury yields (+50bps to 4.3%) was the most noteworthy development during the month. Charlie Munger once aptly observed that financial economists suffered from physics envy. We could not agree more and regard common sense as a much better guiding principle than detailed mathematical models. That said, Treasury yields are the closest thing we have to gravitational pull and large swings will impact market multiples in one way or another. We are watching the situation closely. The 2024 presidential election will be held on November 5th. The race is incredibly tight, and we might not have a result for several days after the election. The fact that the Harris campaign has outtraised the Trump campaign by 3:1 (USD 1bn total) this year with a much better Democrat ground game is as relevant as the recent Trump momentum. We have used the recent up move to buy cheap protection.

Earnings season was satisfactory for our portfolio and our single stock hedges (TSLA, ASML) provided significant value add. After a disappointing robotaxi day, Tesla was up 20% after the Q3 earnings announcement. What a difference two weeks can make. In the case of ASML, the vague commentary on 2025 growth resulted in a derating which we mitigated through options. We will compound with an improved expected return profile from these levels.

Amazon continues its path of increasing margins due to significant operating leverage in the retail business and strong AWS growth. As a reminder, Amazon has doubled its footprint over the last 4 years and is now growing into the large asset base. This trend will continue for the foreseeable future. Alphabet provided more granularity on the business units. The market rewarded the disclosure of USD 50bn in trailing twelve months revenues for YouTube as well as record cloud profitability.

CBRE reported 20% net revenue growth. At the time of our initial investment, the resilient business segments accounted for the entire market value and investors did not assign any value to the cyclical businesses. Management's comments on year-on-year growth in global property sales for the first time since 2022 were therefore very encouraging. EPS guidance for Fiscal 2024 was increased.

We were surprised by the negative market reaction to Microsoft and Meta earnings. Meta reported 19% (!) revenue growth with better cost control. Microsoft guided for slightly lower Azure growth (31-32%!) with an acceleration in the second of half of Fiscal 2025. Azure now accounts for 30% of MSFT revenues (up from 4% in 2017). At 33% growth, Azure alone will account for 10% of total company growth.

Top contributors were Apollo Global (86bps), Salesforce (50 bps) and SPX Puts (38bps). Top detractors were ASML (62 bps), Thermo Fisher (50 bps) and Microsoft (27 bps).

* There can be no assurance that the results achieved by the Fund's past investments will be achieved in the future. Past performance should not be relied upon as an indication of future results. An investment in the Fund involves significant risks, including loss of the entire investment.

 Strategy amended to increase long-bias in Q4 2021. Performance returns are calculated net of expenses, performance fees (15% p.a., accrued annually) and management fees (1.5% p.a., accrued monthly). The returns shown include returns generated by reinvested proceeds. If such returns were not included, the returns would be lower.

 Comparisons to the MSCI World (the "index") are for illustrative purposes only and are not meant to imply that the Fund's returns or volatility will be similar to the index. The Fund is compared to the index because it is widely used as performance benchmarks; however, the Investment Manager does not manage the portfolio to approximate the performance of the index. The index is comprised of securities which for the most part are dissimilar to the positions that would be held directly by the Fund and do not have the same or similar risk/return or volatility profile to that of the Fund.

Risk Glossary

Market Risk - The Fund is subject to normal market fluctuations and the risks associated with investing in international securities markets. Therefore, the value of your investment and the income from it may rise as well as fall and you may not get back the amount originally invested.

Counterparty Risk - The Fund will be exposed to credit risk on counterparties with which it trades in relation to on-exchange traded instruments such as futures and options and where applicable, 'over-the-counter' ("OTC", non-exchange) transactions. OTC instruments may also be less liquid and are not afforded the same protections that may apply to participants trading instruments on an organised exchange.

Currency Risk - The value of investments designated in another currency may rise and fall due to exchange rate fluctuations. Adverse movements in currency exchange rates may result in a decrease in return and a loss of capital. It may not be possible or practicable to successfully hedge against the currency risk exposure in all circumstances.

Liquidity Risk - The Fund may make investments or hold trading positions in markets that are volatile and which may become illiquid. Timely and cost efficient sale of trading positions can be impaired by decreased trading volume and/or increased price volatility.

Financial Derivatives Instruments - The Fund will invest in financial derivative instruments ("FDI") (instruments whose prices are dependent on one or more underlying asset) to achieve its investment objective. The use of FDI involves additional risks such as high sensitivity to price movements of the asset on which it is based. The extensive use of FDI may significantly multiply the gains or losses.

Leverage Risk - The Fund's use of FDI may result in increased leverage which may lead to significant losses.

Model and Data Risk - The Fund's Investment Manager relies on internally derived qualitative and quantitative trading models and algorithms. These quantitative trading models and algorithms may rely on data that is internally derived or provided by a third party. If a model or algorithm or the data consumed by these models or algorithms prove to be incorrect or incomplete, the Fund may be exposed to potential losses. The calculations and output of a models or algorithm can be impacted by unforeseen market disruptions and/or government or regulatory intervention, leading to potential losses.

A complete description of risks is set out in the Fund's Prospectus.
