December 2024 Performance Update

Fund AuM ¹	USD	11 m
Firm AuM ¹	USD	182 m

The Fund pursues a long-biased fundamental equity strategy focused on European and US markets. Assets are predominately invested in companies with a proven track record of compounding cash flow or earnings over sustained periods of time. Hedging techniques will be applied to cushion assets against higher volatility. The portfolio is managed with a 3- to 5-year time horizon and not managed in reference to a benchmark.

The portfolio ended December up 0.1%. The S&P 500 (EUR) declined by 0.4%, the MSCI World (EUR) by 0.6%, the Nasdaq 100 (EUR) increased by 2.5%, and the Stoxx 50 (EUR) increased by 0.3% during the period.

US equities were mostly lower after an exceptional monthly performance in November. Strong performance by Big Tech masked underperformance of smaller sized companies. The equal weighted SPX underperformed the SPX by 410 bps and the Russell 2000 gave up most of its 10.8% gain made in November. Tesla (+17%) and Alphabet (+12% after quantum computing newsflow) were standout performers.

December was light on company specific news. The FOMC meeting was the anticipated event during the month. As expected, rates were cut by 25bps but a hawkish tone served as a reminder that "higher for longer" is still in the cards. The market is now pricing a 90% chance of no rate cut at the January meeting.

2024 was by all accounts another extraordinary year for global indices. The S&P 500 recorded back-to-back >20% performance for the first time since 1998. Similarly to 2023, performance was not evenly distributed. The equal weight S&P 500 clocked in at 11.1% while the S&P 500 was up 23.3%. Nvidia (+171%) continued its remarkable 2023 run and Tesla (+62.5%) appears to make substantial inroads with its full self-driving technology.

The US presidential election provided substantial fuel to this year's rally in the fourth quarter. If the president elect makes good on his election promises of deregulation, tax cuts for individuals and corporations, earnings growth as the key driver of sustainable equity index performance, could surprise to the upside. However, prolonged inflation and higher bond yields could potentially outweigh the aforementioned positive impacts. In stark contrast to 2016, the president elect is currently riding on a popularity wave. Nevertheless, it will be impossible to please everybody. For now, majorities in the House and Senate will allow him to flex regulatory muscle. Global geopolitical and economic relations will be put to the test once more. We deem it wise to ignore the constant tweets and newsflow. That said, the impact on selected players could have dramatic revenue and earnings impacts.

Top contributors were Alphabet (61 bps), Tesla (35 bps), and Apple (27 bps). Top detractors were Apollo Global (64 bps), Nu Holdings (56 bps) and the China Internet ETF (49 bps).

* There can be no assurance that the results achieved by the Fund's past investments will be achieved in the future. Past performance should not be relied upon as an indication of future results. An investment in the Fund involves significant risks, including loss of the entire investment.

 Strategy amended to increase long-bias in Q4 2021. Performance returns are calculated net of expenses, performance fees (15% p.a., accrued annually) and management fees (1.5% p.a., accrued monthly). The returns shown include returns generated by reinvested proceeds. If such returns were not included, the returns would be lower.

 Comparisons to the MSCI World (the "index") are for illustrative purposes only and are not meant to imply that the Fund's returns or volatility will be similar to the index. The Fund is compared to the index because it is widely used as performance benchmarks; however, the Investment Manager does not manage the portfolio to approximate the performance of the index. The index is comprised of securities which for the most part are dissimilar to the positions that would be held directly by the Fund and do not have the same or similar risk/return or volatility profile to that of the Fund.

Risk Glossary

Market Risk - The Fund is subject to normal market fluctuations and the risks associated with investing in international securities markets. Therefore, the value of your investment and the income from it may rise as well as fall and you may not get back the amount originally invested.

Counterparty Risk - The Fund will be exposed to credit risk on counterparties with which it trades in relation to on-exchange traded instruments such as futures and options and where applicable, 'over-the-counter' ("OTC", non-exchange) transactions. OTC instruments may also be less liquid and are not afforded the same protections that may apply to participants trading instruments on an organised exchange.

Currency Risk - The value of investments designated in another currency may rise and fall due to exchange rate fluctuations. Adverse movements in currency exchange rates may result in a decrease in return and a loss of capital. It may not be possible or practicable to successfully hedge against the currency risk exposure in all circumstances.

Liquidity Risk - The Fund may make investments or hold trading positions in markets that are volatile and which may become illiquid. Timely and cost efficient sale of trading positions can be impaired by decreased trading volume and/or increased price volatility.

Financial Derivatives Instruments - The Fund will invest in financial derivative instruments ("FDI") (instruments whose prices are dependent on one or more underlying asset) to achieve its investment objective. The use of FDI involves additional risks such as high sensitivity to price movements of the asset on which it is based. The extensive use of FDI may significantly multiply the gains or losses.

Leverage Risk - The Fund's use of FDI may result in increased leverage which may lead to significant losses.

Model and Data Risk - The Fund's Investment Manager relies on internally derived qualitative and quantitative trading models and algorithms. These quantitative trading models and algorithms may rely on data that is internally derived or provided by a third party. If a model or algorithm or the data consumed by these models or algorithms prove to be incorrect or incomplete, the Fund may be exposed to potential losses. The calculations and output of a models or algorithm can be impacted by unforeseen market disruptions and/or government or regulatory intervention, leading to potential losses.

A complete description of risks is set out in the Fund's Prospectus.
