Review

Global stock markets continued to make progress in July. The economic situation remained resilient with some areas re-accelerating. The US Federal Reserve and European Central Bank increased interest rates to tackle inflation. Alphabet, the owner of Google, was a positive contributor to the fund's performance. Its shares soared in July following a positive quarterly earnings report that exceeded expectations. The company rolled out its artificial intelligence chatbot internationally. Shares in food, uniforms and facilities services company Aramark dipped. The spin-off of its uniform business could prompt short-term instability. However, we remain confident in its long-term investment prospects. We added to our position in DSM-Firmenich as we see potential for a recovery in its animal, nutrition and health segment. The holding in International Flavors & Fragrances was reduced. The combination of a large merger and destocking following the COVID-19 pandemic has created a tough environment for the flavourings and fragrances company.

Outlook

Stock markets remain buoyant, although a small group of US technology companies have been responsible for much of this positive performance. China's sluggish economic recovery remains a worry. Inflation is gradually falling in most major economies but remains uncomfortably high. We believe central banks will continue raising interest rates to tackle inflation. Although many companies are currently performing well where economies are recovering, we expect their revenues will decrease slightly over the rest of 2023. We believe an economic slowdown could happen by the end of the year or in early 2024. Investors are also assessing how next year's US presidential election could impact stock markets. Our approach to protecting capital focuses on stocks with low volatility which provide a degree of stability to the fund. We also look to spread risk across the portfolio by investing in companies that we believe have enduring long-term business strategies. Until we can be confident that the global economy is recovering, we will continue to take a cautious investment approach.
