Fund Portrait

The JSS Sustainable Equity – Green Planet (formerly JSS Sustainable Equity - Water) seeks to achieve long-term capital appreciation through global investments in equities of companies with revenues from products and services that are contributing to green solutions. The objective is to invest in a portfolio of companies of which the average share of «Green» revenues to total revenues is 30% across the portfolio. These companies may be characterised by their contribution to improving water, soil and air quality, preserving biodiversity or fighting against climate change. The sub-fund mainly invests in four areas including ecosystem protection, resource efficiency, new energies and smart mobility. To align the sub-fund with the «Do No Significant Harm» principles, the eligible investment universe as defined by the proprietary JSS sustainability matrix avoids firms on the exclusion list as well as industry laggards and firms with weak ESG credentials.

Review

Equity markets maintained their upward momentum over the course of July as earnings updates topped relatively low expectations. During the month, the fund's performance was up, albeit slightly below the broader equity market, primarily due to a lack of exposure to the financials and energy sectors, which performed well. Positive performance contributions mainly came from the fund's semiconductor holdings – which reported strong Q2 results – and the life science tools holdings, which benefited from share price recoveries after a weak performance in the year to date. The main positive performance contributions during the month came from Onsemi, Sulzer and Infineon. The main detractors were SolarEdge Technologies, Metso and Valmont.

Outlook

Despite global economic risks in 2023, we expect that many companies exposed to green trends such as resource efficiency, smart mobility, future energies and ecosystem protection will see positive growth rates in 2023 and beyond. Structural green trends continue to accelerate, especially in Europe, where the energy situation will move from crisis management to long-term solutions that exclude Russian supplies. This will accelerate the build out of clean energy capacity and electric vehicles (EVs), onshore the production of critical components and build an inventory of critical materials. In our view, companies best placed to take advantage of this broader trend include clean technology providers, green capex plays in the capital goods and machinery space, power semiconductors that are focused on EVs and renewables, industrial metal producers and recyclers, and electricity grids.
