Fund Portrait

The JSS Commodity - Diversified (CHF) aims to realise long-term capital growth. To achieve this the fund invests in different commodities, mainly using derivatives transactions (e. g. futures). The investment in different commodities is selected with the aim of achieving optimal risk diversification and thus a reduction in risk. The following measures are intended to optimise risk diversification: 1. Equal weighting of the various commodity sectors (energy, agricultural products and metals, including gold); 2. Equal weighting of the individual commodities within a sector; 3. Selection of commodities that fluctuate as independently of each other as possible. Currencies other than the Swiss franc are largely hedged against the Swiss franc.

Review

Commodity markets delivered a positive performance in July, with the BCOM CHF Hedged rising 5.8%. Despite a series of disappointing soft data releases in Europe and China, where manufacturing and industrial PMIs drifted in contraction territory, risky assets and commodities rallied as overall demand remains relatively robust and stockpiles remain unseasonably low. Energy was the clear leader in July, with gas oil and gasoline rallying sharply, whilst industrial metals and softs also performed positively. The JSS Commodity Diversified outperformed its benchmark over the month. The main performance drivers were the selection in precious metals and the curve positioning in grains. In terms of selection, the biggest positive contributors were ICE gas oil (+101bps), NYMEX RBOB gasoline (+72bps) and COMEX gold (+58bps), whilst on the negative side NY heating oil (-28bps) and Henry Hub natural gas (-20bps) were a drag. In terms of curve positioning, the fund's positioning in CBOT soybean meal (+21bps) and CBOT corn (+9bps) was positive.

Outlook

Due to the quantitative investment process, assessments of developments in individual commodities do not influence the current and future composition of the portfolio. The three commodity categories of energy, metals and agricultural products are equally weighted in the portfolio. In turn, all commodities are equally weighted within the respective categories. The long-term return potential of the JSS Commodity – Diversified is at the forefront of this particular composition. Compared to other commodity products, the fund consciously avoids any prominent weighting in the energy commodity category. The portfolio is rebalanced at the end of each period, which is usually monthly. Commodity categories that have performed better than average during a particular month are scaled back. The profit is invested in categories that have performed worse than average. Investors therefore automatically pursue an anti-cyclical strategy.
