Global fixed income markets posted largely negative returns in October as investors repriced expectations of policy easing by the Federal Reserve. Jobs data came in mostly stronger than expected, while core consumer price index (CPI) and core personal consumption expenditures (PCE) numbers showed that the battle against inflation is not completely over. Treasury yields were up across the curve.

Monthly performance

In October the fund performed negatively with 0.8%. Rising interest rates were what drove total returns, despite tightening high-yield spreads and high carry.

YTD performance

YTD as of the end of October, the fund has delivered a positive performance of 6.1%. Tightening US high-yield spreads since year-end and high levels of income have been the main drivers in the year to date.

Performance contributors

CCC credit was ahead of other credit qualities in October. By industry, media, transportation and telecommunications were the top performers.

Performance detractors

Credit rated BB lagged other credit qualities this month. By industry, healthcare, real estate and capital goods lagged behind.

Current investment strategy

We remain underweight in CCCs, while we are overweight in BBs. We remain neutral in terms of duration against the backdrop of uncertainty in the rates trajectory.

Risks

Depending on the credit quality, the default risk is higher in the case of high yield bonds than with investment grade corporate and government bonds. Changes in interest rates have an effect on the value of the portfolio. This requires corresponding risk tolerance and capacity. All investments are subject to market fluctuations. Every fund has specific risks, which can significantly increase under unusual market conditions. The fund can use derivatives, which may result in additional risks (particularly counterparty risk). This Fund may not be appropriate for investors who plan to withdraw their money before the recommended holding period disclosed in the PRIIPs KID, if available for this share class.

This share class (mdist) may make monthly, gross-of-fee distributions. As a consequence, in addition to income, this share class may also distribute capital. This can have negative tax consequences for investors in some jurisdictions. Investors should seek their own tax advice.

Please note that additional fees (e.g. entry or exit fees) may be charged. Please refer to your financial adviser for more details. Investors should read the Key Information Document, Prospectus and any applicable local offering document prior to investing and to get complete information of the risks. Investors are acquiring units or shares in a fund, and not in a given underlying asset such as building or shares of a company.
