Performance Review

UBS (Lux) Bond SICAV - Asian High Yield (USD) F-acc

Despite some volatility, global fixed income markets ended November higher. US Treasury yields initially rose as Trump's victory in the US election raised expectations regarding fiscal deficits and stickier inflation. That said, they subsequently fell back as the focus returned to the Fed's rate cut trajectory.

Monthly performance

In November the fund performed negatively with 0.4%. Asia high yield was one of the few outliers within the fixed income market, posting a small negative return in November.

YTD performance

YTD as of the end of November, the fund has delivered a positive performance of 16.8%. The fund continues to perform strongly on the back of idiosyncratic newsflow regarding restructuring progress in selected Chinese real estate, as well as policy support measures. These factors have boosted performance.

Performance contributors

Top contributors included issue selection in financials and issue selection in metals & mining.

Performance detractors

The largest detractors were issue selection in real estate, the underweight in utilities and issue selection in sovereign bonds.

Current investment strategy

We continue to believe that Asia credit could generate positive total returns over a medium-term horizon, supported by attractive carry and alpha opportunities. The progress of recovery in China's economy could be the major driver for the performance of Asian credit.

Risks

Depending on the credit quality, the default risk is higher in the case of high yield bonds than with investment grade corporate and government bonds. Changes in interest and exchange rates have an effect on the value of the portfolio. This requires corresponding risk tolerance and capacity. All investments are subject to market fluctuations. Every fund has specific risks, which can significantly increase under unusual market conditions. This Fund may not be appropriate for investors who plan to withdraw their money before the recommended holding period disclosed in the PRIIPs KID, if available for this share class.

Please note that additional fees (e.g. entry or exit fees) may be charged. Please refer to your financial adviser for more details. Investors should read the Key Information Document, Prospectus and any applicable local offering document prior to investing and to get complete information of the risks. Investors are acquiring units or shares in a fund, and not in a given underlying asset such as building or shares of a company.
