⁴ Reference Index in currency of share class (without costs)

Global fixed income markets ended the third quarter with another month of positive returns in September amid a 50bp rate cut from the Fed, while the markets continued to price in a soft landing scenario. The market lacked direction ahead of the Fed's rate decision, but quickly moved into risk-on mode after the larger rate cut was announced.

Monthly performance

In September the fund performed positively with 1.7%. Asian high yield had another strong month in September, with significant stimulus measures announced by the Chinese government and central bank.

YTD performance

YTD as of the end of September, the fund has delivered a positive performance of 13.9%. In addition, the fund continues to outperform on a year-to-date basis as idiosyncratic newsflow regarding restructuring progress in selected Chinese real estate, as well as policy support measures, have contributed to performance.

Performance contributors

Our largest contributors were issue selection in real estate, issue selection in sovereigns and also the overweights in consumers and TMT (technology, media, and telecoms).

Performance detractors

Our largest detractors were the underweights in diversified industries, infrastructure and transport.

Current investment strategy

Over the medium-term horizon, we continue to believe that Asian credit could generate positive total returns, supported by attractive carry and alpha opportunities. The progress of recovery in China's economy could be the major driver for the performance of Asian credit.

Risks

Depending on the credit quality, the default risk is higher in the case of high yield bonds than with investment grade corporate and government bonds. Changes in interest and exchange rates have an effect on the value of the portfolio. This requires corresponding risk tolerance and capacity. All investments are subject to market fluctuations. Every fund has specific risks, which can significantly increase under unusual market conditions. This Fund may not be appropriate for investors who plan to withdraw their money before the recommended holding period disclosed in the PRIIPs KID, if available for this share class.

This share class (mdist) may make monthly, gross-of-fee distributions. As a consequence, in addition to income, this share class may also distribute capital. This can have negative tax consequences for investors in some jurisdictions. Investors should seek their own tax advice.

Please note that additional fees (e.g. entry or exit fees) may be charged. Please refer to your financial adviser for more details. Investors should read the Key Information Document, Prospectus and any applicable local offering document prior to investing and to get complete information of the risks. Investors are acquiring units or shares in a fund, and not in a given underlying asset such as building or shares of a company. For a definition of financial terms refer to the glossary available at www.ubs.com/am-glossary.
