Performance Review

UBS (Lux) Bond SICAV - Asian High Yield (USD) (EUR hedged) Q-acc

Global fixed income markets posted largely negative returns in October as investors repriced expectations of policy easing by the Federal Reserve. Jobs data came in mostly stronger than expected, suggesting that the Fed is in no rush to cut aggressively.

Monthly performance

In October the fund performed positively with 1.2%. Asian high yield was one of the bright spots within the fixed income market, holding up well and generating positive returns for the month of October as stimulus measures announced by China's government continued to boost sentiment.

YTD performance

YTD as of the end of October, the fund has delivered a positive performance of 15.5%. The fund remains ahead of the Asian high-yield market as idiosyncratic newsflow on restructuring progress in selected Chinese real estate, as well as policy support measures, have bolstered performance.

Performance contributors

The main contributors were issue selection in real estate, issue selection in sovereigns and the overweight in technology, media and telecom (TMT).

Performance detractors

The main detractors were the overweights in consumers and financials as well as the underweight in quasi-sovereigns.

Current investment strategy

Over the medium-term horizon we continue to believe that Asian credit could generate positive total returns, supported by attractive carry and alpha opportunities. The progress of recovery in China's economy could be the major driver for the performance of Asian credit.

Risks

Depending on the credit quality, the default risk is higher in the case of high yield bonds than with investment grade corporate and government bonds. Changes in interest and exchange rates have an effect on the value of the portfolio. This requires corresponding risk tolerance and capacity. All investments are subject to market fluctuations. Every fund has specific risks, which can significantly increase under unusual market conditions. This Fund may not be appropriate for investors who plan to withdraw their money before the recommended holding period disclosed in the PRIIPs KID, if available for this share class.
