Emerging market equities significantly outperformed their developed market counterparts in September, fuelled by the Fed commencing its easing cycle with a 50bp rate cut that surpassed market expectations of 25bp, along with combined stimulus from the People's Bank of China and Chinese regulatory authorities. A weakening USD throughout the month further supported emerging market equities.

Monthly performance

In September the fund performed positively with 6.0%. Consumer staples were the key contributor, while consumer discretionary detracted the most due to our stock selection. Market-wise, China was the key contributor, while Korea detracted the most due to our stock selection.

YTD performance

YTD as of the end of September, the fund has delivered a positive performance of 10.0%. Financials have been the key detractor, while materials has contributed the most. In terms of markets, India has been the key detractor, while Taiwan has contributed the most.

Performance contributors

Ping An Insurance rose along with Chinese equities, which rallied after the government announced a package of supportive policy measures. Largely thanks to the rally in Chinese stocks, PDD completely recovered from its August slump. At the time, we believed that the market had likely overreacted, and we therefore held on to our shares in the company.

Performance detractors

Samsung Electronics fell together with memory stocks on profit-taking and peak-cycle concerns amid lofty expectations. Our underweight in Alibaba detracted as the stock rallied alongside Chinese equities due to a basket of policy stimulus measures. PDD is our preferred exposure to the e-commerce sector.

Current investment strategy

While we remain focused on medium-term fundamental cash flow valuation, the market is being driven by shorter-term factors that are being amplified by risk-off sentiment. We still believe that we are well positioned to recoup performance once the market's focus returns to company and sector-specific fundamentals.
