

UBS Global High Dividend Sustainable Equity Fund USD

Performance Review

UBS (Lux) Equity SICAV - Global High Dividend Sustainable (USD) (EUR hedged) P-acc

2024 has been a year of US exceptionalism as economic growth has repeatedly surprised to the upside. This looks set to continue through 2025 as Trump's policies are likely to support US equities via deregulation and tax cuts. At the same time, ex-US equities will have the cloud of tariff uncertainty hanging over them.

Monthly performance

In November the fund performed positively with 1.7%. The fund benefited from its exposure to low-profitability and high book-to-price stocks. Stock selection, country allocation and global market exposure were also positive. Sector allocation was negative.

YTD performance

YTD as of the end of November, the fund has delivered a positive performance of 16.1%. The fund's exposures to dividend yield and book-to-price have been positive for performance, as have market exposure, country allocation and stock selection. However, sector allocation has been a detractor this year.

Performance contributors

The fund's allocations to the US and Canada and its exposure to the financials and telecommunication services sectors drove positive performance. Its allocations to low-profitability and high book-to-price also contributed to performance. At the stock level, the fund benefited from holding Williams Sonoma and ONEOK.

Performance detractors

The fund's allocations to Japan and France, as well as its exposure to the information technology and real estate sectors, detracted from performance. Its exposures to low beta and high earnings yield were also negative for performance. Meanwhile, the fund's holdings in Honda and AbbVie both detracted from performance.
