The decisive Donald Trump victory in the US presidential election was the dominant market driver in November, buoying US equities given the expectation of fiscal expansion. Meanwhile in Europe, the political situation is even more uncertain: the spread between French and German 10-year bond yields is now on a par with that of Greek sovereigns.

Monthly performance

In November the fund performed positively with 1.6%. In addition, the fund was ahead of the broader European equity markets, driven by particularly strong stock selection in the long book across healthcare and materials. Both the long and short books contributed positively over the month.

YTD performance

YTD as of the end of November, the fund has delivered a positive performance of 8.8%. The fund's performance has been supported by very strong stock selection in the industrials and materials sectors. Our asset allocation across various sectors has also contributed positively.

Performance contributors

We benefited from our position in Ashtead, a UK-listed equipment rental company servicing the construction and industrial sectors in the US (revenue exposure of around 85%). The stock rallied following Donald Trump's victory as his agenda favours lower corporate taxes and the reindustrialisation of the US, both of which should support Ashtead.

Performance detractors

Our holding in Knorr-Bremse, the global market leader in rail and commercial vehicle braking systems, gave back some prior year-to-date gains following disappointing quarterly results, with cyclical pressures having created headwinds, particularly in the Trucks business.

Current investment strategy

We expect an increase in volatility following the US election given some of the policy uncertainties ahead of Trump's inauguration, both in the US and on the geopolitical front. While we are macro-aware, we are not macro-driven, using pair trades to reduce factor risk and increase our stock-specific risk. Our preference for high-quality companies with strong management teams and healthy balance sheets should position us well amid the economic uncertainty.
