Performance Review

UBS (Lux) Equity SICAV - German High Dividend Sustainable (EUR) P-acc

While short-term economic momentum weakened further in September, the German equity market performed well. At the same time, employment levels held up relatively well and inflation dropped to 1.8%, allowing the European Central Bank to deliver a second rate cut during September.

Monthly performance

In September the fund performed positively with 2.3%. The fund performed roughly in line with the German market. While stock selection in healthcare and consumer staples detracted, the overweight in real estate and positioning in financials contributed positively.

YTD performance

YTD as of the end of September, the fund has delivered a positive performance of 13.3%. Positioning in financials and the underweight in consumer discretionary contributed positively, while positioning in materials and stock selection in consumer staples detracted.

Performance contributors

The underweight in Airbus and the overweight in Commerzbank contributed positively. Airbus shares weakened as supply chain issues sparked concerns about meeting production targets. Commerzbank shares were sent higher by takeover speculation as UniCredit built up a stake in the company.

Performance detractors

Meanwhile, the overweight in Merck KGaA and the underweight in Siemens Energy detracted. Merck shares weakened following a strong August as business momentum for the remainder of the year seems to have slowed. Siemens Energy shares benefited from increasing demand for the company's gas turbine business.

Current investment strategy

While keeping sustainability criteria in mind, we are constantly looking for investment opportunities in German stocks with high dividends and attractive valuations. In our view, the combination of high yield and the potential for share price appreciation will generate value for investors.
