

UBS German High Dividend Sustainable Equity Fund EUR

Performance Review

UBS (Lux) Equity SICAV - German High Dividend Sustainable (EUR) P-acc

Positive market performance in Germany continued as a result of the snap election in February, which boosted hopes that the political paralysis will ease. Furthermore, there have been inflows into European equities.

Monthly performance

In February the fund performed positively with 3.7%. The fund lagged slightly in February, mainly driven by its underweight in aerospace & defence within the industrial sector, as we cannot hold stocks of this nature due to our sustainability rating. The overweight in communication services and the underweight in consumer discretionary contributed positively.

YTD performance

YTD as of the end of February, the fund has delivered a positive performance of 11.3%. The fund has lagged due to a mixture of stock selection and sector allocation; overweighting real estate and underweighting industrials have detracted, while overweighting financials and underweighting consumer discretionary has contributed positively.

Performance contributors

The overweight in communication services and the underweight in consumer discretionary contributed positively. At the stock level, positive contributions stemmed from the underweight positions in Siemens Energy and Adidas and the overweights in Infineon, Bilfinger and Commerzbank.

Performance detractors

The biggest negative was Rheinmetall, whose shares gained almost +34% but which cannot be held in the fund because of the company's ammunition exposure. Other negative contributions came from the overweights in DWS, LEG Immobilien and Merck, which suffered due to confirmation that Merck is in talks to acquire SpringWorks Therapeutics.

Current investment strategy

While keeping sustainability criteria in mind, we are constantly looking for investment opportunities in German stocks with high dividends and attractive valuations. In our view, the combination of high yield and the potential for share price appreciation will generate value for investors.
