Performance Review

UBS (Lux) Equity SICAV - All China (USD) (SGD) P-acc

On the economic front, macro data sent out mixed signals. China's trade surplus came down from its historical high due to a slowdown in exports. Higher yields, stronger Q2 results and a weaker dollar-yuan exchange rate contributed to the better performance of offshore equities compared to their onshore counterparts.

Monthly performance

In August the fund performed negatively with 4.0%. Fixed asset investment (FAI) growth slowed to 3.6% year-on-year from January to July due to the continued contraction in real estate investment and further moderation in infrastructure. Meanwhile, retail sales showed a moderate uptick compared to the previous month.

YTD performance

YTD as of the end of August, the fund has delivered a negative performance of 5.5%. The investment environment was choppy, with the market overemphasising the risk factors for Chinese stocks.

Performance contributors

The market was led by the financial sector over the month, which also contributed to the fund's performance. Holdings in consumer staples such as Kweichow Moutai also rebounded.

Performance detractors

Meanwhile, positions in consumer discretionary and communication services detracted. While NetEase's Q2 results slightly missed expectations, with the firm reporting a decline in deferred gaming revenue, we noted that market expectations were high. We believe that the company's rich gaming portfolio should sustain long-term growth in the future.

Current investment strategy

As China's growth normalises, investor confidence has taken a hit and valuations remain well below their historical average. Lower valuations can sow the seeds for long-term alpha generation within China. As bottom-up investors, we continue to believe that extensive boots on the ground research is required to identify the best opportunities.
