

UBS Systematic Allocation Portfolio Medium Fund (USD)

Performance Review

UBS (Lux) Strategy SICAV - Systematic Allocation Portfolio Medium (USD) Q-4%-mdist

After struggling in the first two months of the year, most major equity markets regained ground in March despite an uncertain backdrop of war, tighter central bank policy and growth concerns, which contributed to heightened volatility during the month. Global equities delivered positive returns.

Monthly performance

In March the fund performed negatively with 2.4%. Equities regained ground in March, particularly US and Swiss stocks. For their part, eurozone equities continued to suffer due to geopolitical and macroeconomic risks. In China, renewed Covid-19 outbreaks and regulatory uncertainty contributed to significant equity market volatility.

YTD performance

YTD as of the end of March, the fund has delivered a negative performance of 7.8%. Risk assets have dropped in the year to date. The main issue has been the pace of inflation and corresponding interest rate increases, particularly in the US. The commodity-related uncertainty therefore comes at a time when global consumers are already facing high inflation.

Performance contributors

Thanks to a positive month for risky assets, global equities contributed positively to the fund's overall performance. In addition, risk parity also made a slightly positive contribution.

Performance detractors

High-grade bonds suffered and detracted most during March, followed by eurozone and emerging market equities.

Current investment strategy

The overall signal lost ground and stood at low allocation at the end of the month. The strategic asset allocation was updated at the end of March. We now hold a higher hedge fund exposure and an additional commodity exposure at the expense of certain bond segments.

Risks

The fund invests in bonds of varying credit quality and equities on a global basis, as well as in alternative forms of investment such as hedge funds. It may therefore be subject to fluctuations in value. The quantitative model is expected to be less effective during periods without notable upswings or downturns. The fund may use derivatives which can reduce investment risk or give rise to additional risks (inter alia the counterparty risk). The fund can invest in less liquid assets that may be difficult to sell in the case of distressed markets. It therefore cannot be ruled out that the daily issue and redemption of fund units may be suspended temporarily. The value of a unit may fall below the purchase price. This requires an elevated risk tolerance and capacity. Every fund reveals specific risks, a description of these risks can be found in the prospectus.

The monthly 4%-mdist distributing share classes may distribute capital as well as income. It is possible that the distributions result in an erosion of assets and a reduction of invested capital. There are potential negative tax consequences for some investors in some jurisdictions. Investors in some jurisdictions may incur a higher rate of tax on distributed capital than on any capital gains which are realised on disposal of fund shares. Some investors may therefore choose to invest in the accumulating (-acc) instead of the distributing (-dist) share classes. Investors may be taxed at a later point in time on income and capital arising on accumulating (-acc) share classes compared to distributing (-dist) share classes. Investors should seek their own tax advice.
