

UBS Credit Income Opportunities Bond Fund USD

Performance Review

UBS (Lux) Key Selection SICAV - Credit Income Opportunities (USD) P-acc

Despite some volatility, global fixed income markets ended November higher. US Treasury yields initially rose as Trump's victory in the US election raised expectations regarding fiscal deficits and stickier inflation. That said, they subsequently fell back as the focus returned to the Fed's rate cut trajectory.

Performance (basis USD, net of fees)¹

Monthly performance

In November the fund performed positively with 0.4%. Fixed income returns were broadly positive in November as US Treasuries rallied.

YTD performance

YTD as of the end of November, the fund has delivered a positive performance of 7.2%. The fund performed well, with good contributions from all allocations.

Performance contributors

The largest contributors were developed market investment grade and high-yield bonds, emerging market debt and China onshore bonds.

Performance detractors

Asia and China high yield detracted from performance in November.

Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future results.

Current investment strategy

The fund offers investors a diversified credit portfolio with a strategic bias towards Asian and emerging market credit, together with a unique allocation to onshore China bonds that acts as a diversifier. We seek to manage through this volatile environment via active management and diversification.

Risks

The Sub-Fund is exposed to the credit/ default risk of issuers of the debt securities that the Sub-Fund may invest in. Depending on the credit quality, default risk is higher with corporate bonds than government bonds and higher with high-yield or emerging market bonds than with investment grade corporate and government bonds. The high yield debt securities associated with greater China may be subject to higher volatility and lower liquidity compared to more developed markets. The fund may employ higher-risk strategies within fixed income and currency markets, and may take both long and short positions derivatives. This may result in additional risks, particularly counterparty risk. Changes in interest rates, credit spreads and exchange rates may have an impact on the fund's value. Every fund reveals specific risks, a description of these risks can be found in the prospectus. This Fund may not be appropriate for investors who plan to withdraw their money before the recommended holding period disclosed in the PRIIPs KID, if available for this share class.

Please note that additional fees (e.g. entry or exit fees) may be charged. Please refer to your financial adviser for more details. Investors should read the Key Information Document, Prospectus and any applicable local offering document prior to investing and to get complete information of the risks. Investors are acquiring units or shares in a fund, and not in a given underlying asset such as building or shares of a company.
