

UBS (Irl) O'Connor China Long/Short Alpha Strategies UCITS Fund USD Performance Review

UBS (Irl) Investor Selection PLC - O'Connor China Long/Short Alpha Strategies UCITS (EUR hedged) Q-PF-acc

The Chinese equity markets underwent a sharp V-shaped rally following the stimulus measures announced by the regulator. The more coordinated approach between these regulatory bodies seems to indicate a stronger commitment to support growth, spurring a much-needed confidence boost for investors.

Monthly performance

In September the fund performed positively with 3.3%. The quick rebalancing of our fund in the last week of the month, during which we increased our net and gross exposures, paid off as we captured the rally, particularly in the consumer, property, industrials and financial sectors.

YTD performance

YTD as of the end of September, the fund has delivered a positive performance of 16.7%. Our year-to-date contributors continue to stem from our core themes of net long exposure in generative AI and state-owned entity (SOE) reform baskets, alongside net short exposure in the electric vehicle supply chain and batteries. Our shorts in property stocks continue to face challenges.

Performance contributors

At the sector level, our net long exposures in communication services, financials, consumer discretionary and healthcare were the main contributors, along with our long exposure to the H-shares and A-shares markets that we established following the stimulus measures announcement.

Performance detractors

The strong rebound in the China market naturally impacted some of our high-conviction short positions, which we maintained as their longer-term fundamentals remain intact. Our short exposures to the electric vehicle supply chain space, as well as to property management and development stocks, were the main detractors.

Current investment strategy

The recent stimulus measures further underpin our constructive view on China. However, as we expect volatility to persist we plan to continue managing our portfolio risk pragmatically, while preserving the holding power of the positions around our longer-term themes.

Risks

Counterparty Risk, a significant use of over-the-counter instruments exposes the Fund to potential significant counterparty default risk. The fund may use derivatives, which can reduce or increase investment risk (including the risk of loss due to the bankruptcy of the counterparty). This fund pursues a very active management style. Its performance may therefore deviate considerably from that of a comparable market return. Investments via Shanghai or Shenzhen Stock Connect are subject to additional risks, in particular quota limitations, custody risk, clearing/settlement risk and counterparty risk. Pronounced fluctuations in price are characteristic of emerging economies. Other characteristics include specific risks such as lower market transparency, regulatory hurdles, illiquidity of markets as well as political and social challenges.
