The used financial derivative instruments include mainly options, futures, margin calls, forward contracts on a wide range of financial instruments and warrants on such financial instruments, without being limited to such financial derivative instruments.

What are the risks and what could I get in return?

Risk Indicator

The summary risk indicator is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the markets or because we are not able to pay you.

We have classified this product as 3 out of 7, which is a medium-low risk class. This rates the potential losses from future performance at a medium-low level, and poor market conditions are unlikely to impact the capacity to pay you.

Be aware of currency risk. You will receive payments in a different currency, so the final return you will get depends on the exchange rate between the two currencies. This risk is not considered in the indicator shown above.

Credit risks: The fund can invest some of its assets in bonds. It is possible that the issuers of these bonds may become insolvent.

Liquidity risk: The fund may invest some of its assets in financial instruments that may in certain circumstances reach a relatively low level of liquidity, which can have an impact on the fund's liquidity.

Risks arising from the use of derivatives: The fund may conclude derivatives transactions. This increases opportunities, but also involves an increased risk of loss.

Operational risks and custody risks: The fund is subject to risks due to operational or human errors, which can arise at the investment company, the custodian bank, a custodian or other third parties.

Counterparty risks: If a contractual partner becomes insolvent, it can no longer or can only partly settle unpaid debts owed to the fund.

This product does not include any protection from future market performance so you could lose some or all of your investment.
If we are not able to pay you what is owed, you could lose your entire investment.
